TOLL OF STORM REACHES 1,200; RIOTING HALTED

Smoke of Funeral Pyres Hovers Above Belize, Razed by Wind.

GALE STILL MENACE; U. S. MARINES LAND

Hundreds of Injured Treated and Debris Untangled; Supplies Short.

(Associated Press.)

A single hurricane lashed the Caribbean last night, the survivor of three storms which swirled out of tropical seas last week.

The survivor was still of hurricane force and at last weather reports yesterday was 50 miles or less north of Swan Island, and still moving westward at about 16 miles an hour. This is the storm which struck San Juan, Porto Rico, on Thursday damaging many buildings and killing one person.

Another howler which originated in the Pacific and lashed the nether half of Lower California Saturday, was an unknown quantity. La Paz, Lower California capital, was silent, but at last reports no casualties had been counted in this 4-day-old gale.

A third disturbance apparently had blown itself out over the State of Yucatan, Mexico. This storm wrecked Belize, British Honduras, Thursday and killed at least 1,200 persons.

By REX SAFFER.

Belize, British Honduras (via Pan-American Airways Radio), Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Huge clouds of black, stench-laden smoke hung over Belize today as cremation was resorted to in disposing of bodies of victims of the tropical hurricane which took an estimated death toll of 1,200 lives and caused enormous property damage to this British Honduran capital.

Scores of bodies were burned on five vast funeral pyres almost in the center of the devastated city yesterday and today as health and various government officials attempted to prevent the spread of disease.

The bodies, cremated on open fires, were in addition to more than 700 counted as they were placed in crude graves dug in the city cemetery by prison labor.

Meanwhile squads of volunteer laborers worked ceaselessly under the direction of Honduran soldiers, clearing away the tangled wreckage of homes and business houses that until Thursday made up the capital of British Honduras.

Hundreds Given Medical Aid.

Hundreds of persons injured in the storm and tidal wave that accompanied the blow continued to receive medical aid rushed here by airplane and ship.

Every manner of business has been paralyzed. Residents, many of whom lost their homes and all their belongings, turned willing hands to aid in carrying on the relief work. To them the shock of the storm has just begun to be felt.

Relief work by the U. S. S. Swan was augmented today by the arrival of the United States cruiser Sacramento.

Officials believe that danger of food riots apparently has passed and that relief measures now are in hand.

From the air Belize appeared as a conglomerate mass of wreckage. An airplane which arrived from Miami, Fla., today flew over the city for an inspection of the damage, and its occupants saw no building left undamaged.

More than a dozen seagoing boats were piled up on land and along the waterfront. Some as far as 50 yards from the water's edge.

Priests Only American Dead.

The American consul's office reports that ten Jesuit priests apparently were the only Americans to lose their lives in the storm. That office is making up a list of American destitute who will be provided with funds sent by the Red Cross.

Almost every family in the city has been affected in some way by the death toll.

U. S. Plane Speeds Fire Aid to Belize

Parts to Repair Engine for Fighting Blazes in Suburb Sent.

New York, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—An airplane sped southward from Newark Airport late today with a bundle of odd-looking gadgets intended to aid the City of Belize, British Honduras, fight fires amid the hurricane's debris. A message said Mesopotamia, a suburb, was in danger of being burned.

The bundle contained spark plugs, a magneto and nozzles for Belize's two fire engines, damaged so badly in last week's hurricane and tidal wave as to be useless without immediate repair.

The New York City Fire Department was given a description of the Belize fire fighting apparatus and scouts began to comb over the supplies here for the needed parts. It was the chief of the Mamaroneck, Westchester, department who finally located them, the equipment here being of other types. At 3:35 p. m. (E. S. T.) Pilot W. L. Jamieson loaded the 33-pound bundle into his mail plane and soared away.

Aimee M'Pherson Wed In Rain at Daybreak

Evangelist and Her Voice Teacher Are Married At Airport.

MRS. AIMEE S. M. HUTTON.

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist of the "four-square" gospel, and David Hutton, voice instructor of her Angelus Temple here, were married at dawn today in a drizzling rain at the Yuma, Ariz., Airport.

They left Los Angeles at 3 a. m. in a chartered airplane. At Yuma, Mrs. McPherson's followers had made ready for the ceremony. After the brief service the wedding party reentered the plane and flew back to Los Angeles in time for Mrs. McPherson to deliver a sermon at the regular Angelus Temple Sunday morning meeting. She was her smiling, vigorous self, never once giving a hint to her large congregation that their famous leader had found a new love.

It was the third marriage for Mrs. McPherson. Her first husband, father of young Mrs. Roberta Semple Smythe, is dead. The second, father of Rolf McPherson, has remarried. Hutton, a jovial 250-pound man, was never married before.

The wedding was witnessed by Rolf McPherson and his recent bride, Lor-

230 SAVED AS SHIP GROUNDS IN STORM

Passengers and Crew Taken From Drifting Lifeboats Off Lower California.

San Pedro, Calif., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—After being tossed about by a choppy sea for nearly three hours, 130 passengers and 100 members of the crew of the Panama mail liner Columbia were rescued today from eight lifeboats they entered after the vessel struck a reef during a gale.

Through good fortune no lives were lost in the third sea accident in which the Colombia has figured in seven years. The San Mateo, southbound fruit ship, raced to the rescue in response to S O S calls and picked up the drifting lifeboats.

Later the passengers and crew were transferred to the fruit ship La Perla, and tonight were bound for San Pedro, where they expected to arrive Wednesday.

The Colombia, bound for San Francisco from New York, was caught in the gale Saturday night. A few minutes before midnight she struck the reef, 670 miles south of here off Santa Marguerita Island.

Two hours later, as Pacific coastwise craft raced to the rescue in response to S O S calls, the Colombia discharged her human cargo into eight lifeboats.

The San Mateo reached the scene at 3:40 a. m., picked up the drifters and later transhipped them to a northbound sister ship, the La Perla, which arrived soon afterward.

The Colombia was believed doomed. The Coast Guard cutter Tamarca, under orders from Admiral Jehu V. Chase, of the United States fleet, was en route tonight to the scene, which is at Point Tosco, on the south tip of Santa Marguerita Island, which lies close along the coast of the Baja California (Mexico) Peninsula. Also en route were two salvage tugs.

The Colombia had twelve ports of call between here and New York, and it was impossible to get a correct list of passengers. The ports included Puerto Colombia, Cartagena, Cristobal, Balboa, Punta Arenas, Corinto, La Union, La Libertad, Acajulta, San Jose de Guatemala, Champerico and Mazatlan.

In June of last year the Colombia went aground off Staten Island, N. Y.

Two Killings Laid To Gang Warfare

Bodies of Racketeer Pair Identified; Feud Held Responsible.

Bayonne, N. J., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—With the identification of a body found in Newark Bay tonight as that of Sam Monaco, and earlier discovery of the body of Louis Russo, Newark gangster, at Harrison, police believed they had uncovered a double gangland slaying.

Monaco and Russo left Newark together in Monaco's car on September 10, at 3:30 p. m.; an hour later the car was found abandoned in New York City. The double slaying, Newark police believed, was in retaliation of the slaying of Dominic (The Ape) Pacelli, in a Newark private hospital, November 3, 1930.

Pacelli, a racketeer allegedly trying to muscle in on the north Jersey grape business reputedly controlled by Ciro Terranova, had been taken to the hospital by C. Mangiarcina, believed to be Monaco's business partner. Pacelli had been wounded in an attempt to put him on the spot.

Former Envoy to U. S. From Colombia Dead

Bogota, Colombia, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Carlos Adolfo Urueta, minister of war in President Olaya Herrera's cabinet, died suddenly here today from a heart attack. He was a former Colombian Minister to Washington and has been prominent in Liberal party politics for many years.

The government decreed that Urueta be buried with full military honors. Services are at 11 a. m. Monday.

'SECRET SIX' REVEAL MASTER CRIME RING

Organization Functions in All Parts of the Country, Chicagoans Assert.

Chicago, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—The "Secret Six," mysterious sextet of Chicago millionaires banded together against crime has uncovered "amazing" underworld ramifications during the last year, Col. Robert Isham Randolph revealed tonight.

Col. Randolph, fighting president of the Association of Commerce, is the only member of the "secret six" whose identity is known.

"The secret service force of our committee," said he, "has found that practically all of the crimes against business are being conducted by nationally organized gangs. In one recent case involving a bucket shop specializing in grain market operations, we traced the dealings of the culprits in nineteen States. In our work with the banks it has been shown conclusively that 25 per cent of the daylight robberies about the United States, particularly those of the scare-head variety, involving shootings and large thefts, are being conducted by one country-wide body of supercriminals.

"This gang is said to include as many as 148 killers, located all over the Nation, and for a long time was directed by Fred (Killer) Burke, recently sentenced to life imprisonment in Michigan."

Col. Randolph disclosed that the "Secret Six" has cleared the way for prosecution of 51 criminal groups, including the cases against Gangsters Al Capone, Ralph Capone and Mops Volpe.

The colonel said his cohorts had 21 other investigations now in progress, one including 170 defendants, at a stage assuring their early transfer to the prosecutors, and that 34 newer attacks on crime rings are progressing sufficiently to make eventual victory in the courts seem almost certain.

"In one instance," added Col. Randolph, "an underworld figure in Chicago was found to have balked justice by getting 22 continuances between last December and July. Investigation of his status by the "Secret Six" was followed by his immediate conviction to Joliet Penitentiary.

"Many of those who have been following our cooperation with the Federal authorities in the prosecution of the Capone crowd seem ignorant of the fact that we are interested in combatting any crime that affects business. So far we have been successful in matching wits with forgers, robbers, business and labor racketeers, hi-jackers, pay roll bandits, kidnapers, promoters of fake charities, short-weight merchants and a score of other criminal specialists.

"Although we have kept our activities as quiet as possible, we do feel that in digging up evidence, by protecting witnesses and by letting the underworld know that it has a non-political foe to contend with, we have aided materially in driving out of Chicago many undesirables."

Philippine Attacks On Hurley Subside

Native Press Acts Upon Senator's Advice to Be Tolerant.

Manila, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Counseled by Senator Sergio Osmena, acting president of the Philippine Senate, to "be tolerant and not jump at conclusions," Filipino newspapers today took a more calm attitude toward Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who is conducting an investigation of the independence question.

Newspapers last week intimated the Secretary was being unfair to advocates of independence. Secretary Hurley said he had asked leading questions of those he interviewed, but merely to obtain information.

The Manila Tribune says: "With Secretary of War Hurley's assailants in the Legislature falling in line under the influence of Acting Senate President Osmena, criticism of the War Department head has noticeably subsided since last Friday.

GANDHI BREAKS PRAYER PERIOD TO ASK U. S. AID

Radio Broadcast Urges "Conscience of World" to Help India.

WAR IS HELD FUTILE IN SEEKING LIBERTY

Mahatma Reported to Have Had Secret Conference With MacDonald.

London, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Breaking a tradition of 50 years, Mahatma Gandhi gave up his usual prayer period today in order to address the American people by radio in an international broadcast.

Although it was the first time in his eventful life that the mahatma faced an invisible audience of so many millions, he approached the microphone like a veteran actor, betraying no nervousness, never faltering and never having to search for an appropriate phrase.

The tiny "cell" in the East End settlement house, from which Gandhi spoke, was so cold that his teeth chattered as he stood before the microphone. He was bundled up in thick homespun shawls and behind him was his disciple, Miss Madeline Slade.

Denounces War Means.

Complete silence prevailed as Gandhi said:

"On behalf of India's semistarved millions I appeal to the conscience of the world to come to the rescue of people who are dying in order to regain their liberty."

The mahatma spoke without a single note and with only his "inner voice" to guide him.

"Hitherto," he said, with emotion, "the nations have fought in the manner of brutes. They were eager for vengeance upon those they considered their enemies.

"We in India feel that the law governing brute creation is not the law which shoul guide the human race. I, personally, would wait if need be for ages rather than seek to attain the freedom of my country by bloody means.

Sees India Leading.

"I feel in the innermost recesses of my heart, after a political experience extending over 35 years, that the world is sick unto death of blood-spilling. The world is seeking a way out, and I flatter myself with the belief that perhaps it will be the privilege of the ancient land of India to show that way out to the hungering world."

Gandhi rose at 4 a. m. today and conferred with other Indian delegates to the round table conference. Since the government made no gesture to respect his day of silence tomorrow, he decided to attend the sessions of the federal structures committee, which is to frame India's new constitution as a "silent listener." Should Gandhi be asked any questions, he will answer in writing.

Admits Many Weaknesses.

In his address he said he was painfully conscious that the peoples of India had many weaknesses.

"It is deeply humiliating for me to confess," he said, "that we are

3 FLIERS BEGIN EAST-TO-WEST ATLANTIC HOP

German Pair Is Joined by Third Pilot in Attempt to Gain New York.

SHIP HAS NO RADIO; COURSE UNDECIDED

May Follow Southern Route if Storms Persist After Portugal Take-Off.

Juncal do Sol, Portugal, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Willy Rody and Christian Johannsen, German airmen, with Fernando Costa Viega, Portuguese pilot, took off from an improvised flying field here on a projected nonstop flight to New York at 9:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. Eastern standard time) today. They were reported to have passed over the Island of Fayal, in the Azores, at 5:47 p. m., G. M. T. (12:47 p. m. E. S. T.).

The fliers hoped to reach New York within 40 to 42 hours. They were undecided as to how long they would remain there, but expected to return by air by way of Ireland.

Ships that might sight the plane would be unable to speak to them, because the fliers carried no radio equipment.

May Take Southern Course.

Their course was mapped out in a southerly direction if bad weather, against which they had been warned, persisted. Otherwise they would endeavor to fly to Newfoundland, which would be the shorter route.

As the sun broke through gray skies, the heavily laden Junkers all-metal plane, D-2072, left the ground after a run of nearly a mile. Johannsen was at the controls. He pulled the plane into the air in a long climb straight into the wind before attempting a turn. Within a few minutes the plane was lost to sight.

The three fliers arrived at the field at 6:30 p. m. and spent some time inspecting the plane, which had been there since Friday.

Extra Gasoline in Wing.

Additional gasoline was pumped into the wings and the fliers consulted their navigation charts. Although the field is a lonely spot on the left bank of the Tagus River, about 30 miles from Lisbon, over broken roads and streams, a crowd arrived in automobiles to see the fliers off.

Just before the take-off, the plane was christened with the name Esa, after Rody's bride, by Laura Viega, sister of the Portuguese aviator, who smashed the traditional bottle of champagne on the propeller.

After shaking hands around, the airmen climbed into the cockpit and waved as Johannsen said: "Don't let the wind die down."

The plane rose easily in less than a minute despite its four-ton load. She carried 635 gallons of gasoline and 165 pounds of oil sufficient for 48 hours of flying at an average speed of 93 miles an hour.

Weather experts endeavored in vain to dissuade the fliers and expressed concern that rough weather over the Atlantic might hinder them, but at the same time gave them an even chance of getting through.

Shots Kill Pedestrian In German Red Rioting

Duesseldorf, Germany, Monday, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A pedestrian was killed late last night in Burscheid near here, when he ran into a hail of bullets as police were breaking up a Communist demonstration.

Breslau, Germany, Sept. 13 (A.P.). Communists tonight hurled stones and bottles filled with hydrochloric acid into a parade of Nationalists and steel-helmeters. A number of arrests were made.

Seeking Bargaining Power, Japan Plans Big Navy in '36

Construction Program Held Legal Under London Pact, Which Expires Then; U. S. Would Be Forced to Expend $1,000,000,000 to Reach Limit.

(United Press.)

Japan, seeking bargaining power at the 1936 naval arms conference, will have under way at that time an extensive warship construction program above treaty limits, the Navy Department said yesterday, quoting "Japanese press" sources.

This information was issued by the Navy in the form of an official memorandum outlining the status of world naval powers under the terms of the London treaty.

Japan's plan to obtain a commanding position when the next naval limitation treaty is drawn is perfectly legal under the London pact, the Navy memorandum shows. Each of the signatory powers is allowed to have certain ships on the ways on December 31, 1936, when the treaty expires.

The navy memorandum included statistics designed to show that while Japan will have the maximum naval tonnage allowed and plans to have additional warships underway, it will be necessary for the United States to start a huge construction program, costing more than $1,000,000,000 to secure treaty strength.

To achieve treaty tonnage it would be necessary for the United States to build 55,000 tons of aircraft carriers, 73,000 tons of six inch gun cruisers, 150,000 tons of destroyers and 25,100 tons of submarines.

Of this program, Congress has authorized and appropriated for eleven destroyers.

While the memorandum includes no comment from the official Navy viewpoint, Navy officers are understood to believe that the United States will be in a "disadvantageous" position at the next naval conference because of its failure to build up to treaty limits. Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, veteran chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, and other high Navy officers have said that only with a strong Navy would this coun-

President and Stimson Talk at Rapidan Camp

Luray, Va., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—President Hoover and his guests at the Rapidan camp confined most of their efforts today to keeping cool.

The Chief Executive and Secretary Stimson talked with each other at breakfast, but no intimation of the nature of their informal discussion was to be had.

The President and the head of the State Department were advised of the Austrian disturbance, but made no comment.

The return of the presidential party to Washington is scheduled for early tomorrow.

Body of Prominent Man Found in Lake

Police Scout Theory That He Was Thrown From Passing Ship.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—The body of a man believed to be Walter L. Kipp, 58, prominent resident of Indianapolis, was found floating in Lake Erie, 15 miles north of Cleveland Harbor late today. Officials were investigating to determine whether he jumped or was thrown into the water from a passenger steamer.

A sash rope was bound around his waist and on the other end of it was tied the handle and metal frame work of a traveling bag, which indicated that the body had been weighted before the man jumped or was thrown into the lake.

The body had been in the water about three weeks, police believed. Business cards and a notebook found in the clothing on the body contained the name of Kipp.

Walker May Face New York Inquiry

Seabury Wishes to Learn About Trip to Europe, Report Says.

New York, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—The New York American today said it had learned that Mayor James J. Walker will be called to testify before the Hofstadter legislative committee investigating New York City affairs at a public hearing soon after September 23.

The newspaper said Chief Counsel Samuel Seabury intended to question the mayor regarding David Maier, with whom he appeared in Europe recently, and who was described as a former inmate of Sing Sing Prison.

From an official of the North German Lloyd Line, on whose ship, the Bremen, the mayor sailed for Europe, the paper said, it was learned that Maier handed to Frank R. Barry, an official of the company, the check which paid for the passage of the mayor and his party. According to Barry, it added, Maier, who made the arrangements for the party, was given free passage, on the theory that such distinguished patronage would bring much desirable publicity to the company.

FASCISTS STIR ARMED REVOLT OVER AUSTRIA

Public Buildings Seized in Number of Towns; Blood Is Shed.

ONE SLAIN, SEVERAL INJURED IN ATTACK

Two of Three Chieftains in Move Quit Commands; Rebels Dispersing.

Vienna, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Machine guns and rifles crackled and some blood was shed throughout the northern and eastern provinces of Austria today as the Heimwehr, Fascist political organization, rose in revolt and seized public buildings in a number of towns.

The government immediately took drastic steps to quell the "putsch." It ordered out all available national defense organizations and local police and issued warrants for the arrest of Dr. Walter Pfriemer, self-proclaimed dictator; Col. Rauter, head of the Styrian Heimwehr, and Count Lamberg, second in command, on charges of treason.

Four machine guns and 80 rifles were captured at Purnegg, where members of the Heimwehr started a shooting affray, but were routed by the government forces.

Lay Down Commands.

Dr. Pfriemer and Count Lamberg laid down their commands late tonight. Dr. Pfriemer issued a manifesto declaring he was dissociating himself from the "putsch" and asking his followers to return to their homes peaceably.

The government announced tonight that the rebels were dispersing everywhere and returning to thir homes, and it was said that tomorrow would see the revolt completely quashed.

The rebel forces stormed the secretariat of the Social Democratic party at Kaplenberg, but gendarmes dislodged and dispersed them. In retiring, the Heimwehr members opened fire, killing one workman and wounding several others.

Graz Is Unaffected.

Although Styria seemed to have been the center of revolt, its capital, Graz, was unaffected. Complete quiet prevailed in the remainder of the country and Fascist headquarters in Vienna disclaimed knowledge of the revolt.

Government forces were gathered together to suppress the uprising after posters had been published in Styrian towns telling that Dr. Pfriemer had seized the power of government. Armed forces were reported to have gathered in Judenburg, Zeltweg and Schladming.

The Vienna government sent a circular to all provincial governments to proceed against the revolutionaries with all the power at their command and the Social Democratic party presidium issued manifestoes calling on workmen and Republicans to maintain discipline.

News received here tonight said that the rebels had evacuated all public buildings in upper Austria which were occupied by them this morning and that they had retired from the towns.

Quit Year Ago.

Dr. Pfriemer, a former head of the Styrian Fascists, and his former commander in chief, Dr. Steidel, resigned at a national conference of the Fascist Heimwehr (home guard) a year ago because of criticism that their policy was "ineffective."

The chief command then was turned over to Prince Ernest Rudiger Starhemberg, who was an adherent of Adolf Hitler in the notorious "Kapp Putsch."

Prince Starhemberg later accepted leadership of the Austrian "Oberland," a branch of a Bavarian combatants organization which hoped to unite Bavaria and Austria under a Bavarian king of the Wittelsback dynasty.

The prince is a National Socialist and some believed last year that he had an ambition some day to rule over Austria and German Bavaria. He was reported to be wealthy, the largest landowner in Austria, and to have organized his own army.

(Associated Press.)

Suppression of a revolt in one of the provinces of Austria was announced at the Austrian Legation yesterday.

The State Department said no report of the revolt had been received from the American Minister at Vienna.

PORTO RICO GAINS BALANCED BUDGET

Decline in Imports and Fall in Death Rate Cited by Gov. Roosevelt.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico today pointed to a reduced death rate, an increased balance of trade and a balanced budget as outstanding accomplishments in the island during the past year, but asserted general conditions are still far from good.

The governor, in his annual report to the Secretary of War, said that for the first time in seventeen years the Porto Rican government showed an actual surplus for the 1930-31 fiscal year "in the face of a world-wide economic depression."

In addition, he pointed out that Porto Rico held its export trade practically undiminished and increased the balance of trade in its favor by 36 per cent. The island's exports to the continental United States increased in volume and remains practically identical in cash value.

A sharp decline in imports from the United States and other countries was attributed to successfull efforts in Porto Rico toward crop diversification and resultant increased production of foodstuffs for home consumption.

May Provide Vegetables.

Gov. Roosevelt expressed the opinion that with the advantages afforded by the tariff, Porto Rico may eventually provide the major portion of the $12,000,000 worth of fresh vegetables shipped to the United States annually from the tropics.

At the same time the governor observed that the past year was a bad one for three of the island's principal crops—fruit, tobacco and coffee. Low prices and oversupplied markets were given as causes and the coffee plantations were described as still suffering from the effects of the 1928 hurricane.

The tobacco business also has been affected by the depression in the United States, said Gov. Roosevelt, explaining that the Porto Rican product is of too high quality to be used in the cheaper cigars "which have largely taken the place of the more expensive."

Porto Rico's exports in 1929-30 were given as $99566,205, and in 1930-31 as $98,486,843. Imports were $83,922,829, and $77,337,410.

Balance of Trade Increases.

"The balance of trade, therefore, in favor of Porto Rico increased last year by $4,506,048, or 36 per cent," the governor observed.

He reported the death rate fell from 25.3 per 1,000 the previous year to 18.6 in the 1930 calendar year, the lowest in the history of the island. He warned, however, against considering this a satisfactory condition, observing the rate in the United States is only about 12.

With a view to the cultural and educational development of the island, Gov. Roosevelt said, "We have approached the departments in Washington with the idea of obtaining aid in the establishment of an insular broadcasting station." He added that congressional action would be necessary and remarked parenthetically that a radio station in Porto Rico would do much to cultivate understanding and sympathy between North and South America.

Recalling that the Federal Government provided $6,000,000 to be loaned to Porto Rican farmers for rehabilitation after the hurricane, Gov. Roosevelt said it would be "very difficult" for the farmers to repay in cash for many years.

'Arias Paredes Departs For Panama by Airplane

(Associated Press.)

Francisco Arias Paredes, Panamanian secretary of state, left by plane last night for Panama. Minister Harmodio Arias made this statement upon the departure of his friend and possible rival for the Liberal presidential candidacy:

"We have come to no conclusions in our conversations concerning the political situation in Panama. Mr. Arias Paredes expects to decide after his return to Panama whether he will be a candidate for the Liberal party nomination. As for me, if my friends wish me to run I would have no hesitancy in being a candidate."

Secretary Arias came to the United States several weeks ago to purchase planes for use in a domestic airmail service in Panama. It was understood at the legation that he had arranged for the purchase of two such planes.

Girl Is Attacked; Police Hunt Man

Silver Spring Phone Employe Struck and Choked on Her Way Home.

Silver Spring, Md., and North Washington were being combed early today for a young man who criminally assaulted a young woman late last night as she was walking to her home at 703 Sligo avenue from the Silver Spring telephone exchange, where she is employed.

Farrie Durham, the victim, was allowed to go to her home after receiving treatment by a physician. The attack occurred on Faulkland Drive between the bridge and Philadelphia avenue.

Miss Durham said her assailant wielded a wooden club in his hand, but struck her only with his fists. Then he threw her to the ground and choked her.

She told Sergt. Guy Jones and Private Robert Howes, Montgomery County police, assigned to the investigation, that the attacker was about 25 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, 150 pounds in weight and wearing a straw hat and light colored shirt. His face was scratched in the encounter.

The description was broadcast to Washington police cars.

GANDHI VERSUS BRITAIN IN ROUND TABLE PARLEY

a house divided against itself; that we Hindus should regard several millions of our own kith and kin as too degraded even for our touch. I refer to the so-called 'untouchables.'"

The mahatma said the Indians are struggling valiantly to free their people from the two-fold curse of drink and drugs. The East India Co., he said, destroyed the spinning industry in 750,000 villages in India. "These people," he said, "must starve because they have work for only a small portion of the year. It is in their behalf that I appeal to the conscience of the world."

Secret Conference Reported.

London, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—The Mahatma Gandhi, representing the millions of India at the round table conference to frame a new Indian constitution, was reported tonight to have conferred secretly with Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald.

The newspaper Daily Herald said that MacDonald talked to Gandhi about details of the changes in Indian opinion since the first round table conference. Gandhi emphasized that he was a friend of Britain as well as of India. However, he did not attempt to hide his anxiety concerning the present state of Anglo-Indian relations.

Slipping quietly away from his simple quarters at Kingsley Hall on the eve of his weekly "day of silence," Gandhi was quietly escorted in a side door at the fashionable Dorchester Hotel. It was understood that he met Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, Indian moderate leader, for discussion of the forthcoming conference, and that MacDonald participated in the talk. A police guard surrounded the hotel.

Hotel Sworn to Secrecy.

The Government offices at No. 10 Downing street declined to confirm the report, and the hotel staff said they had been "sworn to secrecy." Gandhi wore his customary loin cloth and had a shawl wrapped around his bare shoulders to guard against the chill of the English climate.

Gandhi's demands for guarantees of India independence were added today to political debate raging over Great Britain's vital problems of empire and financial security. Britain divided its attention between his mission and the steadily increasing probability of a revenue tariff as the result of the present financial crisis.

A great clamor for abandonment of England's traditional free-trade policy was made in newspaper and political circles over the week-end.

Predict Tariff Law.

Many journalists appeared to think that a tariff law was a certainty, but there was doubt whether the present coalition government would undertake the project or leave it for the government that takes office after the next general election.

The Sunday Chronicle, owned by a powerful Conservative party group, predicted that a Conservative victory would put Stanley Baldwin back in power and that he would introduce a tariff law in a new budget next May. It was pointed out that a tariff, probably of around 10 per cent, is necessary to overcome the adverse trade balance which aggregated almost (246,021,100, or $10,000,000, more than last year, for the eight months ending in August.

Most newspapers, however, predicted immediate action on a tariff, which Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, said last week he might favor as an experiment for present needs. The newspapers said the trade balance was a real crisis which must be solved at once to maintain British credit. They also agreed unanimously that protection of home industries and agriculture is essential to the nation's economic and financial salvation, while restriction of imports is imperative.

The conservative Sunday Dispatch predicted a tariff in operation by the end of October, although it has long been known that Chancellor of Exchequer Philip Snowden would oppose such a move and the position of the Liberal party, always an advocate of free trade, was uncertain.

Guide for Gamblers Tells Huge Odds Against 'Sucker'

Everything Favors the House, Says Secret Brochure Published by Dice Manufacturer; "Bones" Need Not Even Be Loaded.

New York, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—The rapidity with which money can be lost in an organized gambling game has been placed in the category of exact sciences with the publication here of a booklet which purports to tabulate the odds and percentages against the bet-layer in any given game.

The booklet was issued secretly by one of the largest manufacturers of gaming equipment. Parts of it are reproduced in the current issue of "Variety." It is labeled, "Confidential, for Club Owners Only. This Little Remembrance Is in Gratitude of Your Patronage."

The "little remembrance" shows club owners how they can make more money by specializing in roulette; how much the house man can figure on clearing in the game of bird cage, and even how to make a book.

In discussing crap-shooting, the statistician draws a fine line between "honest" dice and "crooked" dice. He admits that he has no way of telling how much money the house might lay away with the bones loaded. But the odds against shooting various points are listed as follows:

Odds against 4 are 2 to 1, against 5 are 3 to 2, against 6 are 6 to 5, against 8 are 6 to 5, against 9 are 3 to 2 and against 10 are 2 to 1.

If you should be in quest of snake-eyes, or boxcars, or any other given pair on the dice, you have one chance in 36 of making the grade with one roll.

The game of blackjack is considered very remunerative for the house. The pamphlet refers politely to the fact that "bursts" must pay the dealer, "bursts" being "busts" in less technical language.

As for roulette, all gaming houses should take pains to set up a wheel, in the opinion of the statistician, because money can be made hand over first without the slightest difficulty.

It is pointed out that every high class gambling house usually has three times as many roulette tables as dice tables.

In poker a player stands one chance in 650,000 of getting a straight flush, it is estimated. The odds on four of a kind are 4,164 to 1; on a full house, 693 to 1; on a flush, 507 to 1; on a straight, 254 to 1; on three of a kind, 45 to 1; on two pair, 20 to 1, and on one pair, 13 to 1.

It is estimated that of the gambling fraternity, not one person in 10,000 knows anything definite about his chances to win or lose. The company issuing the booklet is not inclined to tip any of these uninformed customers off. The information that has been collected is solely for the use and guidance of game operators.

Big Birthday Cake Greets Pershing

Home Dinner and Call From Press Photographer Mark Celebration.

Lincoln, Nebr., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Gen. John J. Pershing today celebrated the seventy-first anniversary of his birth and prepared for a three-week visit here with his sister, Miss May Pershing, and his son, Warren.

His program today included a big birthday cake, posing in his sister's elm-shaded front yard for a newspaper photographer, chatting with old friends, and resting.

Miss Pershing arranged the birthday dinner at home.

Although somewhat weary from extensive travel abroad and a train trip half way across the continent, at 71 the leader of America's Expeditionary Force in the World War was still straight and soldier-like in a gray suit. The pose he struck for the photographer was something very like "attention." He carried a cane.

try be in position to dictate terms at the next arms limitation treaty.

Yesterday's memorandum also was interpreted as a further statement of the Navy's policy, which was recently characterized by Secretary Charles Francis Adams as calling for "a Navy second to none."

In speaking of the Japanese naval plans the Navy statement referred throughout to "Japanese press" sources.

After outlining Japan's 1931-36 building program calling for four cruisers, twelve destroyers, nine submarines and numerous smaller craft, the Navy added:

"The Japanese press has stated that Japan does not propose to complete this entire program by December 31, 1936, but intends to have certain units in stages of construction. The purpose of this, according to an interpretation of the Japanese press, is that Japan, in 1936, will not be 'frozen' in types of ships, and also that she will have, with her new and present ships, complete treaty strength plus new ships building, the latter to be used as bargaining power."

The statement said provision had been made for construction of 11 United States vessels against 37 British, 33 French and 29 Italian. It added that the Japanese press said that country's program for 1931-36 called for 38 new ships.

Admiral Higginson Is Taken by Death

Civil War Veteran Once Commanded North Atlantic Fleet.

Kingston, N. Y., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Francis J. Higginson, retired, who fought under Farragut in the Civil War and lived to command the North Atlantic fleet, died at his home here yesterday. He was 88.

He entered the Navy in 1861 and saw hard service throughout the war. Among the major engagements was the bombardment of the forts guarding New Orleans and the capture of the city. He was seriously wounded leading a party boarding a Confederate vessel.

He saw sail give way to steam, and during the War with Spain commanded the Massachusetts. Just before his retirement in 1906 he commanded the North Atlantic Fleet. He moved to Kingston, the home of his wife, upon retirement, and for almost two decades had been a leader in the civic and social life of the city. He was a native of Boston.

Brookhart Claims Plot by Financiers

Answers Dry Law Attack Made by LaGuardia on Radio Program.

New York, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—A vigorous defense of the dry cause was made by Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, over the National Broadcasting System hookup tonight after Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York, had called for a truce between wets and drys over the same network.

Senator Brookhart accused "high finance" of conspiring to support antiprohibition propaganda. The agitation, he said, was designed to make the country forget its own derelictions that caused the present depression and to place an additional burden on the working man through a tax on wine and beer.

Oklahoma Democrats Indorse Murray for '32

Medicine Park, Okla., Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Entrance of Gov. W. H. CHINESE CONFLICT AWAITED THURSDAY

Southern Advance Is Rapid; Combined Attack Likely on Nanking Forces.

Hongkong, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Troops of the southern insurgents were advancing fairly rapidly northward today and it was expected that a combined attack by Cantonese and Kwangsi troops against Nanking forces would be made Thursday.

The Kwangsi forces were said to have reached Yungchow while the Cantonese were at Leiyang. Nanking has sent reinforcements to Anjen and Chaling to guard against a flanking movement but, it seems doubtful whether Nanking will make a serious stand yet. Nanking leaders probably will prefer to draw the southerners farther from their bases before any serious conflict is waged.

On other fronts but little activity was apparent. It appears now that an encounter at Tayuling was merely a skirmish. It is noteworthy, however, that Chang Fat-Kwai's troops have not yet actively participated in the southern drive. They were reported stationed at Luichow, Kwangsi Province, awaiting arms. German equipment intended for them was reported to have been diverted to Nanking.

Considerable speculation was heard in Canton concerning the presence of Low En Kan who was reported to represent the Mukden leader, Chang Ksueh-Liang, long considered an ally to Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nanking government.

5-Year Plan Topic Of Soviet Friends

Returned Technologist Tells Society Here of Development.

Fulfillment of the five-year plan, adopted by the Soviet Union in Russia in 1929, in four years, was the chief topic in a speech made at a meeting of the Friends of the Soviet Union at Plasterers' Hall last night by A. A. Heller, author and engineer, who spent considerable time in the Soviet Union as a technologist.

Mrs. Violet Orr, who traveled extensively throughout Russia, was also one of the principal speakers of the evening. She gave a concise outline of the growth of the Soviet Union from the revolution to the present time.

The chairman of the meeting was Miss Julia Stuart Pointz, Ph.D., formerly of the faculty of Hunter College, who was employed for several years in the Union Soviet Socialistic Republic.

Italy to Issue Decree Revoking Gaming Ban

Rome, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—A decree revoking the 1926 law against gambling houses throughout Italy will be issued this week by the cabinet.

The decree will be another of Premier Mussolini's efforts to aid the Italian pleasure and health resorts, which have suffered severely from lack of business this summer. The tax on gambling also will be used by public utilities giving jobs to unemployed. The council of ministers yesterday abrogated the 1926 law prohibiting the opening of new bars or cafes, which was one of the premier's moves to check alcoholism.

Burglar Leaves Shoes As He Flees Minus Loot

When Mrs. Moses Howe awoke Sunday morning she was startled into full wakefulness by seeing a colored man standing in her room. She screamed, and the intruder immediately left by the way he came in—the front door.

Nothing of value was missing and no damage was done; in fact, the tables were reversed in this case, for Mrs. Howe is the richer by one pair of shoes that the intruder left behind in his haste to get away. Mrs. Howe lives at 1220 Wisconsin avenue northwest.

BODY OF DROWNED GIRL STILL SOUGHT

Harbor Police Drag Potomac in Hope of Finding Second Victim.

Harbor police last night were still searching the Potomac River for the body of 19-year-old Mrs. Arthur Caldwell, of Roanoke, Va., who drowned off Jones Point Saturday evening while receiving swimming lessons from Calvin Richitt, of 612 Somerset place northwest, who was also drowned.

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell, Mr. Richitt, W. T. Keesee, of 912 Irving street northwest, and Mrs. Caldwell's brother had gone out on the river in Keesee's boat.

The double tragedy occurred shortly after Mrs. Caldwell and Mr. Richitt entered the water. The pair went down before any aid could reach them. Police were notified and started dragging the river for the bodies.

Later in the evening Richitt's body was recovered, but no trace of the girl's body could be found. Police last night said that they will continue the search.

Roosevelt Relief Held Hoover Idea

Governor Acted on Formula Advanced by Executive, Says Hofstadter.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter, young New York City Republican, defending the Washington administration's distress relief efforts, tonight said Gov. Roosevelt in his unemployment relief recommendations acted on a relief formula advanced by President Hoover some time ago.

Hofstadter, chairman of the committee investigating Tammany Hall, although chiding New York's Democratic executive, an outstanding candidate for the presidential nomination, praised Mr. Roosevelt for inaugurating the relief movement.

The senator referred to "differences in details" of the relief measures, now before a special session of the Legislature, but asserted, "We may not long disagree on these, in the face of deplorable conditions we are resolved to alleviate."

the degree of master of science there in 1906.

The same year he was assigned to duty at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where he remained until 1910. He was then ordered to Washington and assigned to the Bureau of Construction and Repair of the Navy, where he remained until 1915.

During this time he was in charge of designing new naval vessels. During the next two years Mr. Ackerson served at Mare Island Navy Yard and at the entrance of the United States into the World War he was recalled to Washington to resume his duties in the Bureau of Construction and Repair.

During the war Mr. Ackerson was loaned by the Navy to the Shipping Board to act as consultant on technical matters pertaining to ship design and construction.

At the conclusion of this service he resigned from the Navy to accept a position with the Winchester Arms Co., but soon returned to the shipbuilding industry to head the shipbuilding activities of W. Averill Harriman.

In 1922, Mr. Ackerson was placed in charge of the Merritt, Chapman, Scott Co., a large salvage organization. Here he remained until 1927. He was then sent to Marion, Ohio, by the Harrimans to reorganize the Marion Steam Shovel Co. In February, 1930, Mr. Ackerson came to Washington to assume the place he filled at the time of his death.

Pretzel Revival Hinted By German Wheat Deal

By JOHN J. DALY

IN Berlin there is a semiofficial organization known as Der Deutsche Getreide Handelsgesellschaft. Its equivalent in America is the Federal Farm Board.

Last week the Handelsgesellschaft and the Farm Board put over a deal whereby 7,500,000 bushels of American wheat will be sent to Germany.

Since Germany has never bought wheat from America before, the curious are anxious to know the reason for this purchase. Now it can be told: The Germans are going to revive the old art of pretzel making.

After all the criticism leveled at the Farm Board over the Brazilian coffee-wheat deal, in which the cargoes will be transported by foreign ships, the Federal agency this time specified that American ships would get half the business. It means that the American flag will fly high over the seas carrying wheat for the German pretzels, those fine old figure-eight designs that once graced the free-lunch counters in the land.

* * * *

PRETZELS went out when Mr. Volstead took his place in the sun. Since then, while pretzels are seen in this country, they are of domestic make, and not the old German brands. These are now in the nature of rarities.

With Germany starting up the pretzel business again, the American Nation will undoubtedly become pretzel-conscious—and there is a reason. Wort will do the work.

Wort is to the beer-drinking populace what the wine-brick is to the lovers of rare old vintage. The Detroit factories, turning out 5,000,000 barrels of wort a month, may expect additional business the moment the first shipment of German pretzels reaches this country; for the pretzel is, of its very nature, an inducement to beer drinking. In the parlance of the industry, the pretzel is a biscuit made from wheaten flour by twisting a rolled piece of dough into a knot-like form, dipping it in boiling lye made from straw-ashes, sprinkling it with salt and baking it crisp.

THE old-fashioned pretzel makers achieved the highest form of their art when they made pretzels look like lovers' knots. There were, of course, simpler designs, such as the monkey's fist and the twisted tendril. Whatever the figure, the pretzel was a work of art, inspiring dreams and the hope of achievement in the breast of mortal man. When the crunching of pretzels was heard throughout the land, there was joy in the heart of humanity.

It may be that this one stroke of the Farm Board will turn the tide of prosperity. With all the pretzel factories of Germany going full tilt, and the wort establishments in and near Detroit turning out the natural concomitant of the pretzel, the two great republics may witness a revival of trade—at least between themselves. So long as Germany makes pretzels, America can supply her with the wheat, the shipments both ways to be handled by American bottoms.

It means new activity on the ocean and on the land.

Nearly all of those chosen for the committee represent some organization. Mr. Gifford said the group will "undertake to mobilize national organizations and their membership to the end of their rendering the most effective aid in the relief of distress due to unemployment this winter."

"National groups and organizations have been and are rendering invaluable aid and support to local unemployment relief activities," he said.

Mr. Wadsworth will take over his assignment in an office at relief headquarters today.

Strawn and Green will head a group of representatives of industry and labor and will explain their views and what their organizations are doing at the legion meeting today.

Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, who arrived in Washington yesterday to open the conference today on unemployment and economic conditions, announced that most of the States will be represented by their governors or personal representatives.

"The conference is being held in connection with the regular meeting of the Legion Employment Commission," Mr. O'Neill said. "This commission has been functioning since early last winter with its primary objective to be of assistance to thousands of World War veterans caught in the economic and industrial depression.

"The commission has received hundreds of suggestions and it is meeting here in Washington for the purpose of outlining a program which will be presented to our national convention, which will be held next week in Detroit.

"The delegates at our convention, I am sure, will have such confidence in our commission that they will, in all probability, approve the recommendations and suggestions presented, and immediately our 10,000 posts will be mobilized to carry out the program. The program will be presented to the President's Relief Commission and the legion strength will be used to the best advantage in a coordinated effort."

J. I. France Again Chides President

Candidate Attacks Hoover Analysis of the Economic Situation.

Chicago, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Joseph Irwin France, former United States senator from Maryland and candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, passed through Chicago tonight to open his campaign in North Dakota.

France, a genial, tall, gray-haired physician who turned politician and gentleman farmer, said he believed the present administration "has no conception of the extreme gravity of the world's economic condition."

"In May, 1930, the President said that we had been passing through 'one of those great economic storms which periodically bring hardship and suffering,' and 'we have passed the worst,'" France continued. "Recent events have proved how inadequate was this analysis."

CAROLINA ASSEMBLY TO TAKE UP COTTON

Special Session Convenes Today; Georgia Farmers to Be Summoned.

(Associated Press.)

The South Carolina Legislature will convene in extraordinary session today to enact cotton acreage legislation, while Texas legislators, already at work on the problem, were expected to begin a fight to determine what form their agricultural relief laws will take.

Gov. Blackwood of South Carolina has announced his approval of the no cotton in 1932 plan, sponsored by Gov. Long of Louisiana, and already enacted into law in that State.

In Georgia, Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, announced that he would call a mass meeting of Georgia farmers in Atlanta for Wednesday to demand a special session of the Legislature to pass cotton relief laws.

Would Encourage Texas.

Talmadge, an ardent supporter of the plan of Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana to prohibit cotton planting in 1932, said he would call the meeting partly because the Texas Legislature "needs encouragement to pass the Long plan," which has been disapproved by Gov. Ross S. Sterling.

The Long plan will come up today in the Texas Legislature, along with the acreage restriction scheme which Gov. Sterling has approved.

Talmadge, in announcing the mass meeting, added that some action must be taken at once to relieve a situation he said was becoming more serious daily. He pointed to short ginnings reports and indications that the farmers are holding cotton. He said that without some definite action now the farmers and croppers can lay no plans for their future operations.

Bilbo May Use Troops.

Meanwhile the Texas legislators were besieged from across their borders by pleas for enactment of the Long plan, and other pleas for acreage restriction, and sponsors of the latter scheme in that State were laying plans to carry their fight all over the South, confident that the Texas Legislature would adopt it.

At the same time Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi has under consideration a plan to use National Guardsmen to close down cotton gins and cottonseed oil mills, as was done with Oklahoma and Texas oil wells, "until they give the Mississippi farmers a decent price for cottonseed."

Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma, said he knew of no law in Mississippi under which Gov. Bilbo's proposed shutdown might be effected. He pointed out that the oil wells shutdowns in his State were carried out under authority of conservation laws designed to prevent waste of petroleum.

THINNING BLUE LINE HEARS PARADE CALL

About 1,000 Union Veterans to March in Des Moines on Wednesday.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Sixty-six years ago nearly 2,000,000 "boys in blue" marched in Washington streets singing a victory song:

"Twenty-one miles of boys in blue,
Fifty abreast in the grand review
* * *"

Tonight about one thousand of that number hoped they might be allowed to march in the sixty-fifth grand review Wednesday.

Time has laid a heavy hand on this Grand Army of the Republic, but still has been kind to them, for though legs be infirm, eyes are bright and spirits high.

Most of the 2,000 or so who are expected to attend the annual encampment had arrived here Sunday night, when a memorial and patriotic service was conducted with the affiliated organizations for "those who were not present."

Commander in Chief James E. Jewel, of Fort Morgan, Colo., said tonight that of the 102,438 "boys" who were members ten years ago, only slightly more than 38,000 are now on the muster roll.

Last year in Cincinnati, barely 1,000 marched in the most hallowed of their ceremonies the parade, with an equal number riding in automobiles and a few hundred more on hand as spectators.

Organized a year after Lee's surrender at Appomatox Courthouse in April, 1865, the G. A. R. reached its greatest membership 34 years later in 1890 with an enrollment of 409,487. The first post was organized in Decatur, Ill., April 6, 1866.

was destroyed, lost his brother and the latter's wife and two children, all British subjects, in the storm.

The Wrigley Co.'s building, headquarters for the chicle industry in this section, was demolished. The customs house was left standing but it is badly damaged.

The British cruiser, Danae, is en route here with additional supplies. The plane which arrived today from Miami brought 50 pounds of serum picked up at Havana.

United States marines and sailors took over enforcement of martial law tonight as an accommodation to relieve local soldiers, who are exhausted from long hours of duty.

The marines arrived here on the Sacramento.

24 Killed on Cay.

The body of Rudy Lewis, an American whose home address was not learned, was recovered from the water today. He was killed with 23 others on St. Georges Cay, 9 miles northeast of Belize, where the hurricane struck before hitting the mainland.

L. E. Sherouse, Pan-American Airways radio station manager, got his first respite today after using the company's radio facilities almost constantly since Friday morning, sending out messages and news matter about the hurricane. He spent Thursday night rigging up a gasoline generated power plant and then worked the key from early Friday morning to 11 o'clock last night.

Sherouse chopped a hole through the second floor of the Pan-American radio office to allow ten persons trapped on the first floor by the tidal wave to escape. The roof of the building was carried away by the wind.

Many persons lost their lives when water 5 to 16 feet deep swept over them as they lay pinioned by timbers or walls of buildings blown down by the storm. Heavy timbers were hurled through numerous stone buildings by the force of the wind.

College Buildings Razed.

An aerial view of the city showed St. John's College buildings in the southern section of Belize razed. Houses in the residential section are standing askew, across the streets or in wreckage.

In Sandor, near here, the air view showed many small vessels sunk, some with masts sticking above the water and others with hulls exposed.

Burning of wrecked buildings by authorities continued today as a means of disposing of the debris.

Many of the residents here are faced with food and water shortage. They are depending on rain water for drinking purposes and no rain has fallen since Thursday afternoon, the day of the storm. Incoming vessels are expected to relieve the food shortage situation.

Managua, Nicaragua, Sept. 13 (A.P.). Two of the amphibian airplanes of the United States Marine Corps, which were sent to Belize yesterday with medical supplies and navy surgeons, returned here today.

They were the first to arrive at the stricken city with medical and surgical aid and the pilots, Capt. Mulcahy and Lieut. McKittrick, said Belize was in a serious condition, with food and water running short and with all medical and surgical supplies exhausted after many operations had been performed by only two doctors.

Wind Velocity 90 Miles.

The first blow struck Belize at 11:30 a. m. Thursday, they said, lasting four hours, but doing little damage, except around the harbor, although the wind velocity reached 90 miles an hour. Following this came a dead calm for half an hour, during which the barometer dropped to 26 and the temperature rose extremely high.

Then the second blast came, they said, this time at a speed of 120 miles an hour, and houses were torn from their foundations and flung helter-skelter a distance of a mile.

The tidal wave came at the end of the second hurricane, completely engulfing the city, and the receding waves carried many people out to sea. The second storm lasted five hours, they said. As soon as it was over martial law was declared and rescue work immediately begun. Emergency first aid stations were opened and within a few hours several hundred patients had been treated and over 100 operations performed.

Inhabitants of Belize were anxiously awaiting the arrival of the American cruisers Rochester and Sacramento, because these ships were reported to be bringing fresh water as well as supplies of food.

Sergt. Simmons, of the Marine Corps, who returned with the planes today and who went through the earthquake disaster here earlier this year, said he thought the Belize disaster was the worst.

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 8:30 p. m.—Tropical disturbance central 50 miles or less north of Swan Island, moving westward about 16 miles per hour, attended by shifting gales, probably hurricane force near center. It will continue moving westward, and likely pass inland over British Honduras north of Belize Monday. Caution advised."

Elkton, Va., Girl Killed As Auto Tire Blows Out

Culpeper, Va., Sept. 13.—Miss Elsie Virginia Deane, 18, of Elkton, Va., was killed, and Miss Ada Snyder, 19, also of Elkton, was probably fatally injured when the car in which they were riding, driven by Miss Minnie Plum, overturned near the Rappahannock River Bridge on the Lee highway south of Warrenton this morning.

Miss Plum and Claude Deane, another passenger in the car, escaped with minor cuts. A tire blew out, forcing the car into the bank along the road, where the car overturned.

Grand Jury Summoned For Fairfax Court Term

The grand jury which will be summoned at the September term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, which opens next Monday, has been certified to Sheriff E. P. Kirby. As the circuit court has not been in session this summer more than 90 cases will be presented, the major portion of which are offenses against the State prohibition law.

Montgomery Civic Body To Open Season Tonight

The first meeting of the Montgomery County Civic Federation since the summer recess will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Bethesda School, Wilson lane and Old Georgetown road.

U. S. Consul Taggart, Hurt, Taken to Hospital

Giles Russell Taggart, American consul at Belize, British Honduras, who was injured in last week's hurricane, arrived yesterday in Tela, Honduras, to enter a United Fruit Co. hospital there, according to advices to the State Department. He was transported from Belize in a United States Marine Corps airplane.

Kenneth S. Stout, vice consul, telegraphed the State Department that Mr. Taggart is suffering from pneumonia, fractured ribs and severe bruises. First reports dispatched by Vice Consul Robert Ott indicated that Mr. Taggart was not seriously hurt.

The consul is a member of the District bar and attended George Washington and Pennsylvania universities. He is 51 years old and has been in the foreign service since 1912.

Buildings Are Leveled As Gale Hits Wisconsin

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Property damage estimated at from $100,000 to $500,000 resulted in Wisconsin late today from a gale which swooped out of the Southwest and reached a velocity of 60 to 65 miles an hour as it neared Lake Michigan.

Several buildings were leveled, trees uprooted, power lines broken and crops damaged in the "line squall" which lasted but a few minutes and was followed by heavy gusts of rainfall. Milwaukee, Ozaukee and Waukesha counties suffered most damage. At least three persons were injured.

RED BAND IS TRAILED IN WRECK KILLING 22

Hungarian Police Patroling Mountains for Bombers of Fast Express.

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 13 (U.P.). A cordon of rural police searched the Hungarian countryside from Budapest to Biatorbagy today for a Communist band believed responsible for wrecking a crowded express train with a loss of 22 lives. An American woman was injured seriously.

The Biatorbagy bridge was demolished by bombs exploded at each end and the Budapest express, speeding toward the capital, hurtled from the tracks and tumbled down a 120-foot embankment. Only three carriages remained on the tracks.

About 60 persons were taken from the ten wrecked coaches, suffering from injuries. It was believed the death toll would be increased by the deaths of several who were injured, and officials said other bodies might be found in the wreckage.

The search for Communists was based on a letter found near the scene of the wreck. It said: "Workers, you have no rights. We will force capitalism to grant them every month. You will hear from us. Capitalists eventually will pay for everything, don't fear. Gasoline is not lacking."

Although the message was somewhat incoherent, police believed it might indicate that further outrages were contemplated by the bombers. Another message, attached to a fuse near one of the exploded bombs, said, "Capitalists of the world: If you do not give us work, we know how to make it."

Two relief trains were at the scene of the wreck, which is about 20 miles from Budapest. Rural and Budapest officials took every precaution against other bombings and an area of about 25 miles around Biatorbagy was covered by police squads.

The work of bombing the bridge was reported to have been done skillfully, indicating that expert bombers set the two charges which destroyed the tracks.

She was taken off without loss of life and only small damage to her hull.

She ran aground in June, 1924, off Costa Rica. Passengers were saved then also with small damage to the boat and cargo.

The Colombia was skippered in her latter two accidents by Capt. K. Oaks, veteran officer of the Panama and Pacific Lines. He has been in command of the Colombia four years and has been in the service of the two lines more than 30 years. The Colombia is a vessel of 3,448 tons, 370 feet long, built in Amsterdam in 1915 for South African trade, but was bought before completion for Oriental trade by the Pacific Mail Line, which later became the Panama Mail.

The New York list of passengers included the following sailing for San Francisco: Miss G. Andre, Mrs. L. P. Baron and daughter; Mrs. Helen Bird, J. E. Brown, Mrs. Elizabeth Cook and children, Margaret, Robert and Elizabeth; Miss Elsa Farenholtz, James J. Farley, Mrs. Lloyd Morrill, C. Stone Oscanyan, Mrs. Edith Seifert, Miss Agnes Seifert and Miss Laura Stewart.

Mexico City, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Efforts to communicate with La Paz, capital of the southern district of Lower California, were fruitless today and it was thought here that last week's hurricane must have damaged the radio station there, which was the only means of communication.

Mexico City, therefore, was without further word from Southern California since the report that the hurricane, which caused considerable damage there, was growing in intensity.

The storm swept in from the Pacific four days ago and after lashing the coast of the mainland from Guerrero northward, crossed the Gulf of California and penetrated the lower half of the peninsula.

Head of Saved Family Taught at Annapolis

Commander Seabury Cook, whose wife and children were rescued from the sinking liner Columbia yesterday, for two years was instructor of navigation at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. During his duty at the academy his family resided at Annapolis with him. During the last year he was relieved from duty as a teacher and was given an assignment on the West Coast.

The GIRL About Town

YESTERDAY was Cynthia's birthday. Jane and I motored down to Warrenton to surprise her and to take our gift—a pewter pitcher of Paul Revere pattern. It is a lovely thing, with graceful lines, and a spout that pours without splashing. Of course, all of Paul Revere's work was in silver, but this pewter replica is perfect in its contour. By the way, did you know that Mrs. Hoover is a pewter collector? She has one of the finest collections in this country, which she began in London years ago. This collection is in the Hoover house at Palo Alto. An ingenious plan was devised by which the collection was placed on shelves built into the paneled walls of the dining room. Then a sliding panel could be opened to display the pieces. At other times it is closed, keeping the collection free of dust and out of sight. This pewter collection is worth many times more than its cost.

We went to Wakefield on Saturday to see one of those "fighting Sinclairs" married. It was young Lieut. C. Phillips Hill, jr., U. S. N., carrying out the naval tradition of his family and picking a pretty bride in Barbara Elizabeth Decker, daughter of the Commandant of the Norfolk Navy Yard and Mrs. Decker. Only the families of the bride and bridegroom and their most intimate friends were present. It was a matter of sentiment on the part of the bridegroom that the wedding took place there. He was born at Wakefield and wanted to be married in that "dearest spot on earth to him." The house is now owned by Mrs. George Barnett, Lieut. Phillips is in the Navy's flying corps. Among the attendants was his cousin, Midshipman Lloyd M. Mustin, son of Mrs. George Murray, whose husband is naval air attache at London.

Great moments breed great slogans. England, facing drastic tax imposts to save her financial face, hears Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, conclude a ringing speech with this sentiment: "England yet shall stand." I met Mr. and Mrs. Snowden in Washington, when Mrs. Snowden delivered an impassioned oration on women's rights. Even those who disapproved of her doctrines could not but admire her forensic ability. That reminds me that Representative Ruth Bryan Owen rivals her father as an orator. Her speeches in the House have not been as notable as some made outside of that turbulent body. Perhaps Ruth feels she would be casting oratorical pearls before porkhunters there.

SOCIETY is looking forward to meeting Marshal Petain and his gallant associates when they come here for the Yorktown sesquicentennial celebration. France, with her usual sense of the fitness of things, has selected descendants of French patriots who aided the American Revolution. What a contrast to some of our official delegations, where political pull rather than historic fitness has governed the selection of personnel!

* * * *

It was kind of the authorities arranging the Yorktown celebration to have so many things to unveil, thus giving many women their proper places in the ceremonies. There has been much elbowing for space on the part of noble dames, descendants of those who took the swords away from Cornwallis and his red-coated men. Lady Astor is to be there to help disarm the British again. I heard her say once that she was "now a citizen of a real country, England," but at heart she's a Virginian.

$500 Deficit Reported After Winchester Fair

Winchester, Va., Sept. 13.—A deficit of approximately $500, the difference between operating expenses and income, was incurred by the four-day exhibition of the Winchester Fair last week, it was learned today. Only on one day, Thursday, were the grounds crowded, although the attendance at night was larger, when boxing bouts were staged.

The fair was operated by receivers appointed by court order on the petition of stockholders. Suit is pending in Corporation Court to authorize sale of the 22 acres of land owned by the Shenandoah Valley Agricultural Society and wind up affairs of the organization.

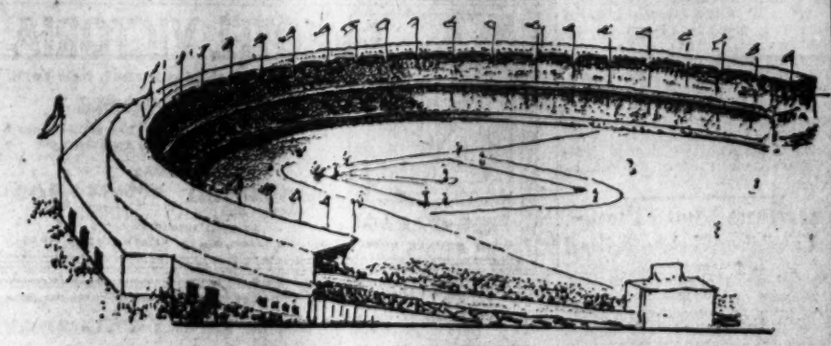
who STARTED



the World Series?

It won't be many days now before a large part of our population will be following the race for the pennant. How many of us realize who started the World Series, who put the players on a contract basis and placed absolute authority in the hands of the umpires? Who, in short, established professional baseball on a business basis?

It was the late Byron Bancroft ("Ban") Johnson.

WE find that Mr. Johnson's business judgment extended to his plans for his family. Under his will he placed the property he left his wife, brother and sister-in-law safely in trust with an institution like our own as trustee, to invest the principal and pay the income.

Here is a well-seasoned plan that is winning approval the country over! Let us tell you more about it.

LINDBERGHS MISS TYPHOON IN JAPAN

Fliers Reach Osaka Between Storm Lashes; Ride About City Sight-Seeing.

Osaka, Japan, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh slipped into Osaka today between the lashes of a typhoon which yesterday descended upon Formosa and spent itself in western Japan.

Storm signals were still flying at various places of the island sea over which the Lindberghs will pass en route to China after spending several days sight-seeing at Noro and Kyoto. The typhoon tail winds were particularly severe at Nagasaki, Shimonosek and Fukuoka, where the Lindberghs will go before leaving for Nanking. Many fishing boats have been reported missing.

The Lindberghs arrived at Kitsugawa Airport after a three-hour flight from Tokyo. They were greeted by airport officials as well as officers of the Japan Air Transport Co. A plane of this company acted as a guide during the quest, to prevent the Americans from becoming lost and possibly flying over prohibited or fortified areas.

After the airport formalities, Col. Lindbergh called upon Gov. Shibata and Mayor Seki. Later he and Anne rode about Osaka in an automobile while officials pointed out the city's high buildings—Osaka people possess much civic pride. Then they motored to Kyoto.

Osaka had planned an elaborate one-day program for the Lindberghs, with a luncheon, tea and dinner, but Col. Lindbergh pleaded that they were pressed for time and the functions were canceled.

There will be two ships both ways daily the northbound ship leaving at 8 a. m. and 3 p. m.; the southbound at 9:40 a. m. and 4:40 p. m., from Newark Airport.

Explosion Blamed For LeBrix Crash

Lone Survivor Believes Pilot Was Killed by Engine Blast.

Ufa, Soviet Russia, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—An explosion which wrecked the engine of the big French monoplane Hyphen II, en route from Paris to Tokyo, caused the death of Joseph Le Brix and Rene Mismin, it was revealed today.

Marcel Doret, copilot of the plane with the famous Le Brix, has recovered sufficiently from his injuries today to disclose the first details of the crash in the foothills of the Ural Mountains Saturday. Doret escaped death by a parachute leap.

They were flying about 120 miles from Ufa when the motor exploded, Doret said. He expressed the belief that Le Brix and Mismin were either killed or seriously injured by the explosion and that neither was able to make a parachute leap. After Doret leaped from the plane the big silver craft fell about 600 feet to the ground.

Death Toll in Oil Blast Reaches Six; 30 Injured

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Six men are dead today and 30 injured, eleven critically, as the result of an explosion in the new $900,000 gasoline recovery still at the Atlantic Refining Company's plant at Point Breeze, yesterday.

Four of the men—Irvin Mulligan, John J. Hall, John Gorman, and Michael Lucas, died yesterday. James Dougherty and George Keating died today. Six of the men now in a critical condition at the hospital are expected to die while others will possibly lose their eyesight, physicians said.

Hurricane Photo Plane Crashes; 3 Are Killed

Vero Beach, Fla., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Three men were killed as an airplane carrying pictures of hurricane scenes in Belize, British Honduras, crashed in a citrus grove at Oslo, near here.

The bodies of G. R. McBroom and George H. Gibson, pilot and copilot, were found in the wreckage, as was the body of E. A. Edwards, Miami newspaper photographer.

Yacht Raider Was Madman, Investigators Now Believe

Actions After Seizure of Vessel Off Long Island Indicate He May Have Escaped From Nearby Insane Asylum; Check Being Made.

Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—The growing suspicion that a madman may have directed seizure of the yacht Penguin, the killing of its owner, Benjamin P. Collings, of Stamford, Conn., and an attack upon his young wife was admitted today by Nassau County authorities.

They deviated from an investigation of this theory only long enough to investigate a report, quickly proved untrue, that the missing man's body had been found near Bayonne, N. J.

"The elderly man described by Mrs. Collings, who boarded the yacht with frightened youth of 17 and carried her off," an attache of Police Inspector Harold King's office said, "may have been an escaped inmate from one of the numerous insane asylums on the shores of Long Island Sound. A check-up of these institutions is being made.

There were only two of the "pirates," according to Mrs. Collings. She said the apparent leader, who threw her husband into the water, was "well past 50," and that his younger companion seemed afraid of him. It was the younger man, she thought, who had said: "Don't tie him up too tightly."

The theory was offered in explanation of Colling's reported failure to make use of a loaded automatic pistol in the Penguin's cabin, to which he twice had access while the intruders were on the boat.

Collings, the police surmised, recognized the peculiar plight of himself and his family, and believed he could work his way out of the difficulty without violence. He, therefore, directed his wife to "do just as she was told and everything will be all right."

Mrs. Collings' story indicated the older man's action toward her in the small boat, where later she was found and rescued, were those of a subnormal person, police said.

The youth, her story indicated, took the first opportunity to get away from his associate, leaving the boat in which she was held captive and wading "150 or 200 feet" to shore.

Mrs. Collings, afterm any hours of examination by Police Inspector Harold King, explained she had left her daughter, Barbara, 5, on their drifting yacht after seeing her husband floating away in the water, to protect the child from possible harm.

"I considered that by drawing the men away from Barbara I was doing the right thing," she was said to have declared. "My little girl was asleep in the boat's cabin. Even if she awoke and found herself alone she was so accustomed to being on the Penguin that I felt sure she would be all right. I did not think of the danger of the cruiser being run down by some Sound steamer."

"As amazing as this sounds," Inspector King said, "all the evidence we have been able to gather is in harmony with it, but I do not intend to call Barbara before the grand jury. I think she knows nothing of what happened excepting as it has been told to her."

BRITISH FLIER SETS 386 M.P.H. RECORD

England Keeps Schneider Air Race Trophy by Her Victory.

the International Aeronautical Federation, it officially was announced that he had beaten by more than 28 miles an hour the previous world's speed record of 357.7 miles an hour, set by Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar in 1929.

With the performance today of Lieut. Boothman, Great Britain, took the Schneider Trophy permanently, having won the two previous Schneider Cup races. The cup was presented by the late Jacques Schneider, French sportsman and engineer, for international competition.

The United States won the Schneider Cup in 1923 and 1925 and stood a chance of achieving permanent ownership in 1929, but failed to nominate an entry within the prescribed time.

Today was fine and sunshiny, after yesterday's postponement of the flights owing to rainy and blustery weather.

Thousands, who gathered along the Solent to witness the speed trials, were thrilled when Lieut. Boothman went up in his gleaming, silvery plane and sped over the first lap at 348.1 miles an hour—the fastest of the seven laps.

During the flight, Lieut. Boothman also broke the world's record for a 100-kilometer flying start on a closed circuit with a speed of 342.9 miles an hour, beating Lieut. R. L. Atcherly's record of 331.75.

Lieut. Stainforth went up after Lieut. Boothman and set the new world's speed record in an S-6-B seaplane.

As the crowd watched breathlessly, he sped over the course in four laps at the following speeds: First, 372.822 miles per hour; second, 404.265; third, 377.011; fourth, 390.162.

It was considered likely that another attempt would be made to better the record next week in an S-6-B machine with an especially adjusted engine.

As Lieut. Boothman crossed the finishing line at Rhyde the crowd cheered itself hoarse and his wife jumped up and down in excitement.

Boothman was given a tumultous reception on alighting and had to be protected from the enthusiastic crowd by members of the Royal Air Force as he stood, with a face pale and streaked with black, to be photographed.

He had kept a remarkably even course on the level stretches and banked almost vertically at the turns. Except when he climbed around the pylons, he retained a height of 300 feet, affording the spectators a splendid view of his S-6-B plane.

Mexican Air Route to be Mapped.

Mexico City, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Eighty army aviators, commanded by Col. Gustavo Leon, have been ordered to fly this week to Mexicali to chart a regular aerial passenger and mail route connecting Mexico City and Lower California.

Total production of rice in Louisiana this year is estimated at more than 16,000,000 bushels.

Save your PISTONS with Amoco-Gas

SAVE your money, too, with Amoco-Gas! Amoco-Gas burns with an absence of hard carbon, giving increased power and mileage.
Directly above the pistons of your car is the combustion chamber, where is created the force that drives your car. The space between the top of the piston and the top of the chamber is carefully measured to a fraction of an inch.
Hard carbon deposits caused by incomplete combustion materially decrease this space and cause what is known as "carbon knock". The carbon also acts as an insulator, keeps the heat from being dissipated through the cylinder walls, resulting in a loss of power and increased consumption of gasoline and oil.
Fill the tank of your car with Amoco-Gas today. Save the pistons--increase your mileage--get better all-around performance.

'LITLTE RED SCHOOL' PASSING IN FAIRFAX

Records Show Strong Trend to Larger Institutions Through County.

According to attendance records for the schools of Fairfax County, large consolidated school centers are rapidly replacing "the little red schoolhouse," Divisional Superintendent Wilbert T. Woodson stated.

For the past several years the trend has been toward the large schools and the school board has been compelled to close from three to four small schools annually because of economy in transportation to the larger schools.

The distribution of pupils was the principal topic of discussion at the special meeting of the board recently. The four larger centers at Fairfax, Lee-Jackson, McLean and Herndon show an enrollment of more than 300 pupils each this year and the buildings are overcrowded.

The board voted to transfer one of the teachers from the Andrew Chapel School pending the transfer of the 33 pupils enrolled to the Vienna School. This school has always heretofore been one of the two-room schools with large enrollments.

The board passed a resolution asking the resident State highway engineer to have the State Highway Commission lower the speed limits in the vicinity of several of the schools.

More than 12,000 signatures were secured on a petition from voters to make the matter a referendum, according to Mr. Hart, but no action was taken by Maryland authorities The legislation frees the railroad line of approximately $190,000 in taxes during 1931-1932. In other words, we conduct two complete but allied businesses under one roof with one organization, and do it efficiently and economically because one is at its height when the other is at its quietest, and vice versa.

Thus for the two businesses—

We have one executive officer instead of two.
We have one group of employes instead of two.
We have one bookkeeping department instead of two.
We have one fleet of trucks instead of two.
We have one overhead cost instead of two.

AN AMERICAN APOLOGIST.

Col. Hugh L. Cooper, who has assumed the position of Soviet ambassador to the United States, reports that Russia has abandoned communism and is now operating on a basis of state capitalism which will later be modified by a measure of private capitalism. Apparently this information, which is broadcast on authority from the dictators of Moscow, is intended to appease the American people. The Soviet bad boy who wanted to set the world on fire is reforming, says Col. Cooper. Will not the United States please forget his murders?

The American people are well aware of the fact that the Soviet betrays the idealistic side of communism, which was used during the last decade to lure the Russian people into slavery. One by one Stalin has cast aside the alluring theories of equality and brotherly cooperation in favor of iron-fisted dictatorship. Communism failed in Russia years ago, just as it has failed everywhere that it has been tried. But the bigots who rose to power as a result of the Communist movement have obtained a secure grip upon the country and are able to cover up past failures with new projects requiring the people to live and work like cattle in the hope of a millennium at the end of five years.

The United States has never objected to communism in Russia. That is the business of the Russian people. But it objects to the bolshevist doctrine of world revolution, to which the Moscovites still cling with dying hopes. Likewise the United States objects to dealing with a nation that makes slaves of its people to strengthen the power of the tyrannical clique that is in control. Col. Cooper does not say that the Soviet has abolished forced labor. Only the ideal communism has been abandoned. The rude reality of slavery, dictatorship, tyranny and deplorable living conditions remains. The pretense of equality is gone, but the dictators call for more human sacrifices to the five-year plan.

Col. Cooper speaks in enthusiastic terms of a trade conference in which the United States would forget about Russia's debt to American taxpayers and other political questions. He thinks the United States might perform a great service to the world by negotiating a trade agreement that would allow the Soviet to dump slave-made goods upon the American market in return for the privilege of selling American goods to an impoverished people.

It is enough to remind Col. Cooper that the last Congress enacted a law forbidding the importation of goods made or handled by forced labor, and the Treasury is now preparing regulations to put it into effect. The statement that the Soviet is taking off the mask of communism makes its hideous economic system no more acceptable to the United States. American engineers who are contributing to the Soviet enslavement of the Russian people are not very convincing witnesses when they assert that the reds are quitting communism. The Soviet discredits its own American apologists.

AIR-COOLING PLANTS.

It is remarkable that this country, which has led the world for many years in the installation of every kind of modern appliance for comfort and convenience, should have been so long in making up its mind to adopt air conditioning for relief from the discomforts of summer heat. The demands for heat as soon as the thermometer falls a few degrees in the autumn are most insistent, but sweltering offices, workshops and homes have been accepted all too complacently as a necessary evil.

Air conditioning has arrived, however, and undoubtedly is destined to make great progress, just as all such improvements have done in the United States once their practicability has been demonstrated. A survey just completed shows that there are already in operation about 3,250 plants equipped to provide air at a comfortable temperature. More than 400 buildings have installed large central-station systems and over 300 theaters are now equipped with air-conditioning apparatus. Nearly 100 large stores have also joined the comfort class.

Small air-washing plants and humidifiers have been in use in hospitals and some homes for years. Probably 25,000 such plants are now in service, but general adaptation to office and home is yet to come. It is confidently predicted by those interested in the new industry that public acceptance of cooling systems will surely materialize, because the public daily encounters the benefits of the large systems in theaters and similar places. Who can doubt it? All new inventions—the telephone, electric light, automobile, radio, electric refrigerator—were considered at first interesting though scarcely practical. But Americans insist upon having any device that adds to the comfort and enjoyment of life.

PORTO RICO'S PROGRESS.

Gov. Theodore Roosevelt takes justifiable pride in his annual report on Porto Rico in pointing out that, notwithstanding the unfavorable economic conditions throughout the world, the island budget has been balanced for the first time in 17 years. The government had a surplus of $748,000 for the year 1930-31, including a $654,000 reserve set aside for emergencies. The treasury took care of the carry-over liabilities as well as current expenses.

Gov. Roosevelt does not want the continental United States to feel, however, that Porto Rico is too prosperous, just because it has been able to show an excess of resources over liabilities. General conditions are better, but the governor says that not by any stretch of the imagination can they be called good. Porto Rico still requires much attention and aid. Statistics show that health conditions have improved, though this does not mean that the health record of the island as yet even approximates that of the United States.

A good showing is made in export trade, which even during the year of depression, remains virtually undiminished. The balance of trade in Porto Rico's favor has been increased 35 per cent.

The governor pays tribute to the American citizens of Porto Rico for their "distinct culture, developed over the centuries, the roots of which lie in Spain. "It is as worthy of respect and consideration," he says, "as that on the continent. Our attempt should never be to stamp it out or hinder its development in any way, but rather to foster and encourage it." Col. Roosevelt is also generous in his appreciation of the help and cooperation he has received as governor of Porto Rico and believes that one of the most significant things connected with the progress that has been made is that it must not be credited to any individual, or small group of individuals, but rather to the work of a large number of really devoted public servants.

AIR MAIL.

Twenty years ago the first experiment in the transportation of mail by airplane was made in the United States. The first sack contained 640 letters and 1,250 post cards. The flight was from one point to another on Long Island. That was on September 23, 1911, and the pilot—the first to be licensed—was Earle L. Ovington.

In celebration of the twentieth anniversary of that event, the Postoffice Department will send Mr. Ovington on another flying trip. It will be from Los Angeles to a point in Arizona. It is expected that thousands of letters will be dispatched, for the reason that a special cachet will be used on all mail carried. Each piece of mail thus treated will be indelibly marked with a befitting legend. Philatelists all over the world will be on the lookout for these special cachets, as they will command a premium which will increase yearly.

The first piece of mail forwarded by air was addressed to Frank H. Hitchcock, then Postmaster General, who expressed the belief as he witnessed the first flight that "such a service, if found feasible, might be established in many districts where the natural conditions preclude other means of rapid transportation."

In announcing the celebration of the anniversary of the first experimental transportation of mails by air the Postoffice Department gives an interesting summary of the progress of the air mail service. The account says: "From this humble beginning, but a fifth of a century ago, when a mail plane traveled less than 10 miles between two landing fields, today there are 400 planes in charge of some 300 pilots, collecting mail by air to every important city and town throughout the United States. Air mail routes form a cobweb over every section of the country, North, South, East and West. And not only mail, but passengers and merchandise are transported from point to point by a service that is quickest and absolutely safe.

"For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1931, air mail pilots flew 21,380,517 miles, during which period they dispatched 8,579,422 pounds of mail matter. There are now 23,488 miles of air mail routes operating in the country, and not a single section that can prove justification for such service has been overlooked by the Postoffice Department."

Pilot Ovington, who will be the principal celebrant of the twentieth anniversary of the air mail, says: "I was duly sworn in as 'airplane mail carrier No. 1' on the regular postoffice form, except that no salary was mentioned. So I guess I'm still an air pilot, as I've never resigned, never been fired and never been killed."

PROSPEROUS BELGIUM.

A short time ago France held the enviable position of the most economically secure country in Europe. But unemployment has developed within her boundaries and she has felt the influence of the world depression. It is now Belgium that steps forward as a prosperous and happy example of economic stability.

The war destroyed Belgian industry so that it was necessary to rebuild it completely. Consequently, her plants are all new and built along progressive lines. This has given her a decided advantage over England and other trade rivals, whose equipment is antiquated. Ninety per cent of the country's coal is now extracted mechanically. It was mined principally by hand before the war. Without increasing the number of blast furnaces, Belgium has doubled her pig iron production, and her glass output has been virtually doubled.

Belgian government bonds are selling above par and her discount rate is only 2½ per cent. The gold behind her bank notes is 66 per cent, and her savings accounts are steadily growing. Exports are almost equal to imports. Taxation is no higher than in other European nations. Although she has her unemployed, they do not constitute an acute problem, as the number for the entire country is estimated at 62,000. During the recent era of prosperity, instead of paying large dividends, financiers built up reserves which may be drawn upon during periods of depression. This far-sighted policy has created a solid basis for the nation's prosperity.

The thrift of the individual worker has done much to advance Belgium's position. Most men employed in the city live in the suburbs or the country, where rent is cheap and gardens can be cultivated. As a rule the wife plants vegetables and raises chickens and rabbits.

Belgium has balanced her budget and is determined to maintain a financial equilibrium so that the crisis of 1926 will not be repeated. At that time her financial situation reached a point of extreme gravity due to the pressure of foreign creditors and reckless public expenditure based on short-term credits. By avoiding foreign borrowing and building up reserves Belgium has insured herself against the more severe effects of the depression.

DESTRUCTIVE MOTORS.

The annual toll of life taken by automobiles is steadily increasing. In spite of a 10 per cent decrease in the mileage traveled by motor vehicles last year, accidents mounted 12 per cent, deaths from automobiles 4 per cent and injuries 13 per cent. More than one-fifth of the fatalities occurred on Sunday, with Saturday, Friday and Monday forming the sequence order for number of deaths. Yet analyses show that there is less traffic in the towns and cities and fewer pedestrians on Sunday.

Of the 32,500 fatalities caused by automobile accidents last year 40 per cent occurred at street or road intersections. It is surprising to learn that in proportion to the number of accidents twice as many people were killed on State highways as in cities and towns. Although 70 per cent of all accidents took place within municipalities, only 44 per cent of the deaths occurred there.

It may be concluded that the greater speed at which cars usually travel on the open highway is a contributing cause to the higher death rate from accidents in rural areas. California authorities agree that since the speed limit has been raised accidents and fatalities have increased in that State.

In addition to the deplorable loss of life in motor accidents, 960,000 persons were injured last year and the destruction of property is estimated at more than $1,000,000,000. Insurance companies have actually paid $300,000,000 in claims. Although a number of States have endeavored to curb this appalling loss, their records show that as yet no effective remedy has been devised.

If New York City would get away from the miasmas emanating from the Stock Exchange and inhale a few whiffs of the more optimistic atmosphere west of the river it would feel better.

England is going to let its grand old taxer and slicer, Philip Snowden, resign before adopting a protective tariff.

Mexico has always found it safe to impose on the United States because of its strength and on China because of its weakness.

Can any man avoid feeling somewhat conceited when he takes out a $5,000,000 life insurance policy?

THE BLOODHOUND MYTH

From the Boston Transcript.

We still believe in Santa Claus but our faith in bloodhounds has been so often betrayed that it has grown weaker and weaker with the years and is now converted to rank skepticism. Harriet Beecher Stowe long ago made our young blood run cold with her description of the ravening bloodhounds chasing Eliza across the ice. They never caught her, but in our innocence we did not realize why. It was simply that they ran true to form; they were honest-to-goodness bloodhounds. If the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" had been a nature faker she might have shown them overtaking the wretched slave girl. But she knew her bloodhounds and refused, even in a work of fiction, to lend her pen to the support of the ancient tradition. She knew, as most of us have since learned, that the bloodhounds of folklore, like the gorgon and the minotaur and cerberus and the werewolf, is wholly a creature of legend.

From our youth up we have continued to read of the employment of bloodhounds to run down fugitives or to find babes lost in the woods, hoping eagerly to come upon one instance that would confirm the old wives' tales. But every story has had the same bitter end. The bloodhounds have come sneaking back to leash utterly baffled; or have themselves become lost so that woodsmen have been sent out to rescue them; or, after getting away hot on the scent, giving tongue loudly and leading an eager posse through thicket and brier, have been come upon at last huddled with tongues out and tails wagging over the body of an unfortunate rabbit.

It may be, of course, that escaped convicts smell like rabbits and so mislead the bloodhounds, but even so, why don't the hounds just once in a while run down an escaped felon under the delusion that he is a rabbit? Only the other day the New York newspapers recorded the case of Staten Island's famous "pants burglar," who makes a specialty of clambering into chamber windows and rifling trouser pockets of their contents. All summer long he has plied his trade, eluding the best laid schemes for his capture. Then somebody suggested bloodhounds. A pack was at once procured, the pockets of a dozen pairs of plundered trousers were put to the dogs' noses, and they were unleashed. Within an hour the hounds had gone unerringly to the several houses of the owners of the trousers, who found them basking on their front steps when they went home to lunch, a hound to every individual pair of unmentionables. At last accounts the "pants burglar" was still at large and the idiotic bloodhounds had been taken back to their kennels on Manhattan. And yet their reputation has not suffered a particle, though a Pomeranian or a Pekingese could not have made a greater fiasco of the job. The bloodhound myth persists and like many another superstition seems to thrive on hard knocks.

You Can't Get Up Steam Today by Fanning Yesterday's Ashes

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN a woman has done something wrong, alone or with the aid of an accomplice, she may acquit herself by fixing the blame on some one else or she may convince herself that wrong is right, but in any case she refuses to handicap herself with a burden of remorse.

This alone is ample proof that women are saner and more practical than men.

There is a form of insanity that consists in a morbid self-abasement inspired by some real or fancied wrong-doing. The victims, in nearly all cases, are men.

True insanity of this type is rare, but many men young and old have developed a habit of self-condemnation that is abnormal.

Their consciences have become their masters instead of useful servants.

Call the conscience what you will—an inborn sense of morality, a spark of divinity, or an acquired sense of obligation to abide by the rules—its normal function is to warn against wrong-doing and prompt the repentance necessary to prevent a repetition of the wrong.

If it is content to do this much and no more, a conscience is an unmixed blessing and the chief support of decency.

But the habit of repentance, like all other habits that aid or hinder men, grows in strength with each repetition and easily develops the intemperance that is vice.

The habit of remorse is morbid and debasing. The victim, though fully forgiven, is unable to forgive himself. His mind is in a rut. He is the unmanly and foolish slave of a nagging conscience.

Decent repentance is wholesome. Scorn of yesterday's evil is evidence of growth. But remorse is an emotion and emotions waste energy, and the man who broods over the evil done yesterday robs himself of the strength that might do good today.

Sleep is a form of death that ends a period of life. With the new day you were born again to begin a new existence. Why burden yourself with the memory of sins committed in a former life?

If you now scorn the sins, you are not the same man you were yesterday. Is it fair to burden the new man with remorse earned by the old one? Give yourself a break.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Politics and Trouble.

New York Herald-Tribune.

In an ideal world politics and trouble would never be allowed to mix. When a nation fell into a slough all hands would forget their differences and help pull the wagon out. But the fact is, of course, that in this far-from-perfect world politics and trouble are little twin brothers. The first thing that any politician thinks of when times go bad is how he can best turn his country's woes into votes.

So we advise our readers not to take too much to heart the current eruption of political maneuvering in respect to the feeding of the Nation's hungry next winter. Wrath is a misplaced emotion with respect to such petty and prevailing selfishness. Rather are such political tricks a hopeful sign that things are not really as hopeless as these traffickers in gloom would have one believe. When politicians—whether Republicans or Democrats—begin to fight for the credit of being the only authentic Good Samaritan in the world the spectacle surely has its humorous side.

Wire Tapping.

Chicago Tribune.

The Department of Justice has directed the nolle prossing—that is, dismissing—of cases supported by evidence procured by wire tapping. This is probably the result of refusal by juries to give weight to evidence so obtained, but we should prefer to believe it a recognition on the part of the department of a bad public policy involved. It is true that by a 5-to-4 decision the Supreme Court has approved this method of obtaining evidence, though in a case in which the law of a State was violated by Federal agents in so doing. But the Chief Justice intimated that Congress was free to prohibit the introduction of such evidence, and, though Congress has not yet taken the hint, it is certainly not improper or inadvisable for the Department of Justice to recognize not merely the inexpediency but the impolicy of practicing or rewarding this invasion of private right.

No More Bonus.

Christian Science Monitor.

Reports from various sections indicate that the machinery of World War veterans' organizations is being geared up to bring pressure on the United States Government for heavy cash payments soon. This is watched with apprehension by officials of the administration in Washington, who have just floated a loan to cover Treasury deficits. The one reassuring factor in the picture thus far is a declaration by Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, of his confidence that "if it is shown that further liberalization of bonus legislation will place a burden on the country, the Legion will not ask for it."

It can readily be shown that to pay the face value of the compensation certificates, a maturity value which will not actually be reached for more than ten years, would certainly place a burden on the country. It is calculated that to cash these bonus policies would require more than $2,300,000,000, which, in addition to the deficit of $1,500,000,000 already in prospect, would push the United States Treasury deeper into the red than it ever has been except for two years during the war.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Writer Protests Against Law Disarming Responsible Citizen While Gangsters "Tote" Guns.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A United States senator recently appeared in a news reel showing that he had been deluged with letters concerning gangster activities in this country and said that the coming Congress would consider the enactment of legislation prohibiting the interstate shipment of firearms.

Apparently the senator is proceeding upon the theory that "the hair of the dog that bites you is good for the bite." One of the principal reasons for the enormous growth in crimes of violence and especially highway robbery, "hold ups" and the like, is the fact that our laws have, for a long time, armed the criminal and disarmed the law-abiding citizen.

Our present laws assure the thug that he will very likely find his victim unarmed. The man who contemplates highway robbery certainly will not let a concealed-weapon law stop him from arming himself, while the law-abiding man will not take a chance of becoming involved with the law. The lawless man can transport his own weapons across State lines and a law regulating interstate shipment would mean little or nothing.

No one would advocate indiscriminate "toting" of pistols. However, the man of established position in the community who has a clean record behind him and who is forced to be out late in lonely places, or who takes his family on an automobile trip through sparsely settled territory, should be permitted to arm himself in view of present day conditions, if he wishes to do so. There should be additional legislation upon the subject, but it should be legislation providing:

First: That any person having been once convicted of robbery, by force and violence, and thereafter found to be carrying a dangerous weapon, should be sentenced to not less than ten years' imprisonment.

Second: That none of the laws relating to parole or probation should apply where the crime in question involved robbery by force and violence, or with a dangerous weapon.

Third: That any citizen who has a clean record, a fixed place of abode, and an established occupation and who is a taxpayer in the community in which he lives shall have (as a matter of right) a permit to carry a weapon when he deems it necessary.

Of course, the objection will be raised that some one will get hurt under that plan. Well, some one is getting hurt now and it is the law-abiding man. We put the flower of American manhood in the muck of Flanders' trenches to die, if necessary, to establish the proposition that wrong should not triumph, but at home we spear to put so much value upon mere life that we are ready to subordinate public honor, public safety and even the respect of the people for their own government to a desire to avoid a two-fisted handling of the criminal element.

OBSERVER.

Another Correspondent Demands That Married Women Give Jobs to Unemployed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am of the opinion that no woman whose husband is making over $2,500 per year should be allowed to stay in a Government office and thus deprive some man or other woman, who has a family to support, of an opportunity to earn an honest living.

I know that there are lots of married women who have families to support, but there are hundreds of cases in all the Government departments where husband and wife are both drawing good salaries, enough to support two families in comfort, while hundreds of competent men are out of work and their families are suffering for the necessities of life. When husband and wife are both employed in the same department, each receiving at least $2,400 per annum, the heads of the departments should look into the matter and at least make an honest effort to have it stopped. There are hundreds of deserving men and women on the civil service list who would be glad of an opportunity to work for the Government.

JUST FOLKS

TWO SENTIMENTALISTS.

He was a sentimental man. He'd often shed a tear
When some one came and poured a tale of sorrow in his ear
And wiping dry his misty eyes he'd say: "I wish I knew
A way to end your misery, but nothing can I do."

His neighbor was a hardened case and gruff as gruff could be,
He never shed a misty tear where any one could see.
He mocked and jibed at sentiment and sneered at people good,
But if a poor man needed them he'd send him coal and wood.

The sentimental man disliked to look on scenes of woe,
He'd talk of wrongs men ought to right, but never strike a blow.
The rough and tough old customer who lacked the art of speech
Befriended every weaker man who stepped within his reach.

I do not think I'm fit to judge man's conduct on this earth,
I know it's very difficult to value human worth,
I merely note this difference twixt two men, wide apart,
The one had pity on his lips—the other in his heart.

Presumably her house here will be kept open for Miss Katrina McCormick expects to come on for occasional visits, one of them to be made in October at the time of the marriage of Miss Eleanor Hard and Gerard Kirsopp Lake. Mrs. McCormick had wanted to come on herself for this event, as the McCormicks and the Hards have been lifelong friends, but decided against the long trip as she is seeking a complete rest after a gruelling two or three years of political activity.

Now on a pack trip through the mountains near her ranch in the Jackson Hole country of Wyoming, Mrs. McCormick will go to Colorado Springs in time for the opening of the school nearby which her son, Johnny (Medill McCormick, jr.) attends. Little Miss Basie McCormick will also be in school at Colorado Springs for the coming winter.

Miss Bristed Is Married to C. D. Jackson

Bride Is Descendant of Former Representative in Congress.

Miss Grace Bristed, daughter of Charles Astor Bristed and the late Mrs. Bristed, and a great-great-granddaughter of the first John Jacob Astor, was married at noon Saturday to Mr. Charles Douglas Jackson, of New York, at Lakeside, the Bristed summer home on Lake Mahkeenac.

The bride is a descendant of Judge Theodore Sedgwick, who served as a representative in Congress and as a member of the Massachusetts Supreme Court bench. The ceremony took place in the living room, which had been decorated with flowers. The Rev. P. T. O'Connor, rector of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in Stockbridge, officiated.

Mr. Bristed gave his daughter in marriage. Her bridal gown was of crepe Elizabeth, with a court train of duchess lace 4½ yards long. Her veil was of tulle. The lace and a necklace of pearls and diamonds which she wore had been worn by her mother and paternal grandmother at their weddings. Her bouquet was of gardenias and clematis.

Miss M. Symphorosa Bristed was her sister's only attendant. Her flower chiffon gown was mauve in color, and her felt hat was decorated with ostrich feathers. She carried varicolored asters. Mr. Jackson's brother, Mr. Alan Jackson, of New York, was best man, and Baron Leopold Buffin, of Brussels; the Messrs. Henry Gassaway Davis 3d, George K. Livermore, Henry C. Breck, Ronald M. Pearce, Parker Lloyd-Smith and Benjamin Allison Colonna, of New York; Dr. Frank S. Rogers, of Albany; Malcolm D. Haven, of Boston, and James S. Hatfield, John Paul Barringer and Charles Frederick Bailey, of Philadelphia, were ushers.

The wedding breakfast was served at small tables on the verandas. The invitations were limited to 100 because of the death last winter of the bride's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will sail soon for an automobile trip of six weeks in England, Scotland, France, Italy and Belgium. They will reside in New York.

The bride is a member of the Junior League, and, with Miss Elizabeth A. van A. Manning, is an owner of the Travel Service Bureau at 17 East Fifty-seventh street. Mr. Jackson attended Hill School and was graduated in 1924 from Princeton, where he was a member of the Colonial Club. In New York he belongs to the Princeton and Army and Navy clubs. He is the head of C. D. Jackson & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Legare are taking a motor trip through Canada and are spending some time at the Manoir Richelieu, Province of Quebec.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PLANTING SHRUBS.

IF YOU were too busy to plant the shrubs you wanted in the spring, do not wait for another spring to roll around before doing so. Try to get them into the ground in the fall, then when spring arrives you will have well-established bushes.

By setting the shrubs out in September they will have fully two months' more growth than they would have had you waited and planted them in the spring. This means that they will have developed sufficient strength to withstand the heat and drought of their first summer, which are frequently fatal to newly planted shrubs. And as a last argument in favor of fall planting, we usually have more time and a better opportunity to see the open gaps in our gardens than when things are dormant.

Think what it will mean when spring comes to see these bushes begin to unfold their beautiful coloring before the last snowpile has melted. Fall planting also means flowers the first year instead of the second.

Any of the spirea family, if planted in the fall, will blossom next spring. In selecting spirea be sure to find out just when the variety you are purchasing will bloom, because there are three classes of this worth-while shrub: spring-flowering, summer-flowering and fall-flowering. All are hardy; all have vigorous constitutions and all are beautiful. And let me urge you when planting to add to the shrubbery of your garden to choose some of the winter berry-bearing varieties.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ONE of the slowest and most deliberate speakers ever heard over the radio, Mahatma Gandhi, who had never before addressed a radio audience, speaking from Kingsley Hall Settlement House in London, was plainly heard in Washington yesterday afternoon. His address was dignified and impressive and doubtless will win his cause many friends in this country.

He spoke for about 25 minutes. His voice was much deeper and stronger than his frail stature would indicate, his address was in English with a foreign accent, and despite his unfamiliarity with the microphone he was apparently at his ease.

"What have you been doing?" he was heard to say to Miss Yosker, in charge of Kingsley Hall, who held the fort for him with the radio audience while he finished his evening meal (it was 12:30 p. m. in Washington).

Apparently not understanding that he was on the air Gandhi then asked her: "Do I have to speak into this thing?" Following this there was a pause during which the voices of children playing at the Settlement House could be distinctly heard. Gandhi then began speaking but throughout the address the shouts of the children at play continued as a background.

Mopping his brow in the sweltering weather a Washingtonian listening to Gandhi remarked: "I surely envy him of his costume in all this heat."

WITH the resignation of L. Ames Brown, a third Washingtonian, Ralph V. Sollitt, becomes head of Lord & Thomas & Logan, New York, one of the largest advertising agencies in the world. Lord & Thomas & Logan handle the Radio Corporation of America account, also the Lucky Strike and Palmolive programs.

Mr. Brown was formerly a correspondent of the New York Sun in Washington. His predecessor was the late Thomas F. Logan, correspondent in the Capital for the Philadelphia Inquirer and a member of the Gridiron Club.

Mr. Sollitt was vice president of the Munsey Trust Co. here, if memory serves correct. Later he became assistant to Albert Lasker, of Chicago, president of Lord & Thomas, when Mr. Lasker was chairman of the Shipping Board. When the former left Washington some one remarked:

"Lasker will make Sollitt a rich man, but Sollitt will make Lasker a richer man." Tom Logan made more than a million dollars out of the business and Ames Brown is now reputed to be independently wealthy.

"WE are of opinion that we are past the time when it would be appropriate to paraphrase the bard Scott, by some such lines as these:

"We oft have heard of radio law,
Now in the morn they hang and draw,
And sit in judgment after."

Thus concluded an appeal to the Radio Commission in behalf of the Rev. John W. Sproul, owner of Station WMBJ, Pittsburgh, for a renewal of his license by Counsel Nathan B. Williams and W. D. Jamieson, of Washington.

They registered a sharp protest against the practice of the commission of delegating an examiner to hold hearings, and contended that since an examiner, and not the entire commission, had heard the Pittsburgh case, the proceeding was illegal.

"There was no intimation that the hearing was not to be by the commission," counsel declared. "On the date mentioned for it, the Rev. J. W. Sproul appeared at the offices of the commission, when to his surprise it was found that an 'examiner,' an employe of the commission, had been designated by the commission to hold such hearing.

"The Rev. Mr. Sproul apprehending that the commission would so far disregard the law and his rights by refusing to hear him, and in the belief that a lawful hearing would be afforded him and not desiring to be put to the further expense of appearing in Washington, made no objection to the lack of lawful authority of an examiner of the commission to conduct such pretended hearing. No member of the commission appeared, presided, or in any way participated in the hearing.

"There is no authority found in the radio law, or elsewhere, giving to an examiner-employe of the commission any authority to administer oaths, take testimony, or hold hearings. The authority to do these things was by Congress lodged in, and restricted to, the commission. In a proposed revision of the radio law, which passed both houses of the last Congress, but which failed of enactment, there was a provision to confer authority upon examiners to administer oaths."

IT is hard to believe that a description over the air could have been such a complete failure as that of the so-called "Pageant of Jewels" from the Fiesta in Los Angeles Friday night. Evidently there had been no prearranged assignments for the announcers, with the result that they were all trying to talk at one time—even going so far as to have Ruth Chatterton and Miss Del Rio talking into separate microphones at the same time.

The promised musical background by the Police Band of Mexico City failed to materialize, as did the introduction of the Wampas baby stars. Fans who had waited up until midnight to listen in could have had no regrets when WRC signed off after half an hour of it, because they weren't hearing anything anyway.

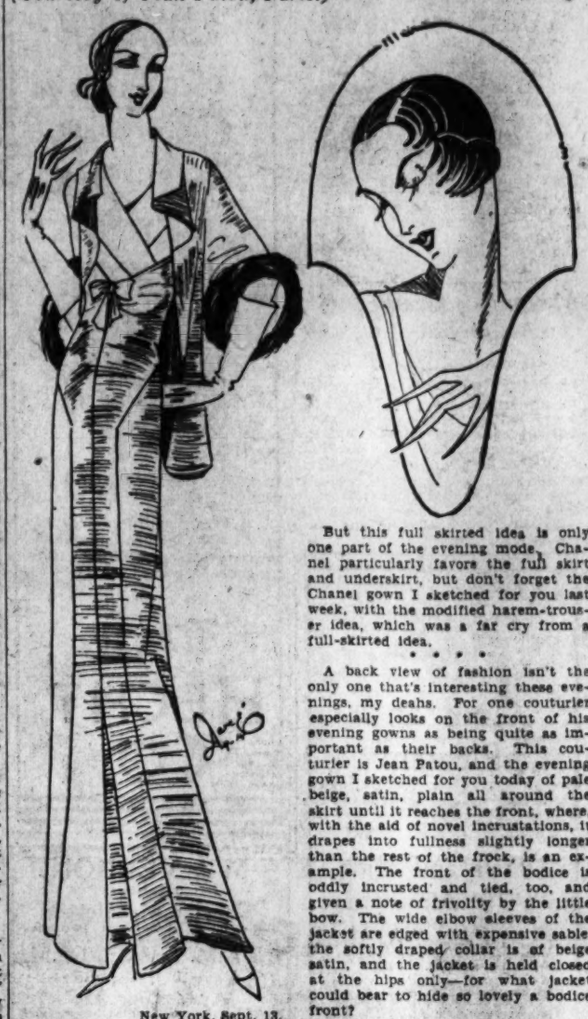
Jane Interprets the Mode

Pale beige satin forms this truly elegant evening gown, and the short sleeves of its little jacket are banded in sable. (Courtesy of Jean Patou, Paris.)



New York, Sept. 13.

"OF course we like petticoats!" asserts the modern young lady of fashion. "They're so quaint." She's right—they are quaint, these petticoats, or underskirts, if you prefer, and they're very prevalent in the smartest evening mode, and decidedly picturesque.

Most of the important Paris houses reserved their indulgence in period styles for evening wear. Period evening gowns had full, wide skirts, and these skirts were worn necessarily over petticoats nearly as wide, and much stiffer than the skirt of the evening gown itself.

So now, Miladis Elegantes rustle to evening parties with a subdued and seductive swishing sound caused by the unseen, but very-easy-to-guess-at petticoat. Taffeta and faille are favored fabrics for the season's underskirts, because of their stiffness and general swishiness. 'N' these full petticoats are further stiffened by hidden strips of crinoline and their wide hems edged by rows of taffeta ruchings or ruffles.

The petticoat was the best, in fact, the only way to hold "modern 1880" skirts out with sufficient bouffancy, so the couturiers created petticoats to be worn as integral parts of their evening gowns.

But this full skirted idea is only one part of the evening mode. Chanel particularly favors the full skirt and underskirt, but don't forget the Chanel gown I sketched for you last week, with the modified harem-trouser idea, which was a far cry from a full-skirted idea.

* * * *

A back view of fashion isn't the only one that's interesting these evenings, my deahs. For one couturier especially looks on the front of his evening gowns as being quite as important as their backs. This couturier is Jean Patou, and the evening gown I sketched for you today of pale beige, satin, plain all around the skirt until it reaches the front, where, with the aid of novel incrustations, it drapes into fullness slightly longer than the rest of the frock, is an example. The front of the bodice is oddly incrusted and tied, too, and given a note of frivolity by the little bow. The wide elbow sleeves of the jacket are edged with expensive sable, the softly draped collar is of beige satin, and the jacket is held closed at the hips only—for what jacket could bear to hide so lovely a bodice front?

* * * *

And so, you women who don't want unkind emphasis paid to the back of your evening gowns, just snap your fingers gayly and cling firmly to the front-important evening mode.

* * * *

Simple, but effective, n'est-ce-pas?—the coiffure illustrated today? A sparkling rhinestone holds Miladi's locks smooth until they choose to curl forward in a new version of the windblown effect.

* * * *

'N' the only thing about the dress that I could see, my dear, that warranted all that great big price, was its adorable little pearl-mesh collar. That's not strange—if you've ever tried to buy collars and cuffs separately, you know from sad experience how very spensive they are. But to make—that's a different matter, and one that's fully explained in the leaflet that's waiting for your stamped-self-addressed envelope at the Dare department of The Post, telling all about the making of lots 'n' lots of brand-new collar and cuff sets.

Dare's weekly fashion letter, full of up-to-the-minute comment, is an interesting feature of The Sunday Post.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

HIS PRECIOUS TEMPER!

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: I am a daily reader of your wonderful column and enjoy each and every article. I have decided to come to you with my own problem. It may not sound so terrible to the outsider, but it caused me the world of heartaches. Sometimes I feel there is nothing left to live for. To begin with, am 25 years of age, and have been married for five years. We are in business, and things are far from good. Always worryment over money, day and night, it seems to be the same. But here comes the worst part of the story. My husband has a very mean temper. I realize that business may not help his temper along, but still I have to work with him daily to cut down expenses, and spend as much time as he does in the store, and do everything possible to make him content. Still, when the slightest thing should occur regardless of how many customers or friends are in the place, he will bawl me out as if the biggest crime has been committd. He always has something to find fault over. I wouldn't feel quite so badly if he would at least respect me when others are around. When we are alone I can stand up for my rights, but in front of others, I feel humiliated arguing. However, now I have started to stand up for my rights regardless who is around in the hope that it will cure him of his nasty habit, but find that it is still the same. When he is in a good mood everything is fine and then I try to talk to him, but it is soon forgotten. His promise doesn't mean a thing. Is there any cure for him? I will appreciate a prompt reply, as it has made me disgusted with life and everything in it. I always had such beautiful visions of life. I realize, married life is not always honey and pie, but at least people can respect each other. Somehow, my husband thinks he is just in his action, and whatever he does he has cause to. Please answer this letter, Miss McDonald. It will mean so much to hear your advice.

HEARTBROKEN READER.

The next time your husband insults you, drop whatever you are doing and leave the store. And do not return until he apologizes. Remain in your home where you belong and let him hire a clerk to insult.

If you are weak you will not follow this advice, and the bully will live happily ever after. If you assert yourself, you will find that your terms will be met and you will receive the respect that is every decent woman's due.

These uncontrolled animals who do as they please and then plead temper as their excuse can only be brought to terms by making them suffer by their own acts. They are always supremely selfish and keenly aware of any discomfort. So the way that always reaches them is the way that brings them discomfort.

Yield and be a doormat. Rebel and be a self-respecting human being.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

29

"THAR'S GOLD IN THEM HILLS."

It is a genuine pleasure to see a difficult hand at Contract expertly played by the Declarer and accurately defended by his adversaries. Often it is touch and go as to whether or not the Declarer will be able to batter down his opponents' defenses or whether they, by superior strategy, will be able to utilize their inferior forces and defeat his project. Necessarily, the fact that one side is the Declarer, and this is particularly true when a game of contract has been arrived at, carries with it the implication that he and his partner believe they have the superior force or will be able to so utilize their forces, which may be nearly equal so far as honor strength is concerned, as to attain their object.

Recently, I had the pleasure of watching in a Duplicate Team-of-Four game some very accurate play on the part of Mr. Richard Frey, who with Geoffrey Mott-Smith won the Eastern Contract Pair Championship at New York in 1930.

North and South not vulnerable. East and West vulnerable. South dealer.

The Hand:

The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered notes.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♣	Pass	3NT(1)
Pass(2)	3NT(3)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1. It pays East to be cautious because his side is vulnerable. It is true his hand contains 2½ honor-tricks plus a Queen and he knows that his partner is not making a "nuisance" bid against a non-vulnerable opponent.

2. South might possibly have bid three diamonds in view of the scoring situation, but this bid would not change the ultimate declaration.

3. West's bid of three notrump is fully justified. His hand contains 3 honor-tricks and his partner's bid has shown stoppers in the spade suit and unquestionable additional strength elsewhere.

Against a notrump contract South is faced with that difficult question, the choice of a lead. His hand is not of the type that suggests the advisability of a "warning" lead which in this case would be the lead of his highest heart. In view of the bidding by East and West, North is probably trickless. South's hope of defeating the contract must be based upon the establishment of low cards in his own hand in addition to the honor-tricks which he is sure to make. It would appear that the diamond suit offers the best possibility of development. If East is compelled to lead the spades, he may find his double stopper in that suit become only a single stopper, but actually a spade lead would not have helped South against the line of play adopted by Mr. Frey. The King of diamonds was opened and East permitted it to hold the trick. Upon seeing the double stopper in the diamond suit, South then shifted to the spades, leading his fourth best card, the six; North played the Knave and East false-carded by playing his King. Now a small diamond was led and the Knave finessed in Dummy. The Ace of diamonds was laid down, upon which North discarded a small heart. This was the first important development in East's plan of campaign. The Knave of hearts was led from Dummy and permitted to hold the trick. This was followed by the small heart which East won with the Ace. Now South was thrown in the lead with the diamond and at the eighth trick he tossed the lead back to East by the lead of a small spade. South could see the net being drawn more closely about him, but his struggles were unavailing. The heart King was discarded in the Dummy and the spade Queen won the trick. Now East led the Queen of hearts and South was forced to part with the card with which he had hoped to set the contract. His hand now cohtains nothing but three spades and the King-Knave of clubs. The spades are established, but to discard a club would permit East, as South fully realized, to find his game-making tricks in the club suit. Hoping against hope that North might be able to find a club trick, he discarded one of his established spades. East again threw him in the lead with a spade and permitted him to make his 2 spade tricks, after which South was compelled to concede the last 2 tricks to East, a fitting reward for an accurately played hand. If at trick eight South would have played the Ace of spades instead of a small spade, the result would have been the same, although the play would have been delayed 1 trick. If South had played either the King or Knave of clubs, the heart King would have been retained in Dummy and the clubs established for 9 tricks. Every play was carefully thought out and every move by the Declarer had behind it a definite purpose.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The basic outline of the inferences in the Responding Hand is the following:

More than 90 per cent of opening bids are one-bids and they include the range of hands varying from 2½ up to 4½ honor-tricks. An opening one-bid is a leap in the dark and the selection of any final bid will largely depend upon the distribution and balance of honor strength in the responding hand. Raises show a distribution favorable to partner's suit bids; responses with new suits generally deny it; finally notrump Take-outs deny both the support in partner's bid suit and a biddable suit in one's own hand.

In general the bidding tempo is disclosed by the specific kind of responses which show a greater or lesser number of honor-tricks. The pass abandons all hopes of game.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"VIRGO."

IF September 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10:25 a. m., from 3:15 p. m. to 5:10 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 11 a. m. to 1:20 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:25 p. m.

The astrological influences ruling on September 14 will be nebulous and unsatisfactory. Curious and unexpected experiences will happen and an atmosphere of uncertainty and doubt will prevail. Inefficiency will be discovered in business matters; incompatibility will cause dissension in the home.

Children born on this September 14 are destined to rise in life as a result of their perseverance and application. They will develop a strong sense of fairmindness and toleration. Their dispositions will be affectionate, and their love will be founded on perfect trust and confidence.

You, if born on September 14, are a hard and an indefatigable worker, but are at your very best when working "on your own," and not subject to systems implanted, or restrictions imposed, by others. Free and untrameled, you will work out your own salvation. Held in check by others, you will be a "fizzle." Your memory is exceptionally retentive and you remember not only what you read, but what you see. You are acquisitive of information and in mentally card-indexing your store of knowledge you show capacity for discarding all that is superfluous and for holding on to what is beneficial.

A humdrum existence does not make much of an appeal to you. You crave a reasonable amount of excitement, and changes are in no way distasteful to you. Your ambition is without limit and you are bound to succeed if you follow your own individual hunches and do not allow your course to be altered to suit the whims and fancies of others.

Your home life does not promise to be placid or uneventful. On the contrary, many differences will exist during the early years of marriage. If you "stick it out," however, later years will bring about a better understanding and a more equal partnership.

BEACH SITES OFFER EXCEPTIONAL VALUE

Extremely Easy Terms Are Offered on Property by The Post.

Where can you get better value for a $9 investment than at Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development on South River, in Maryland? The $9 is all the cash necessary before becoming a lot owner at the Beach. While the price of lots there is $93 each, easy terms have been arranged by The Post so that family budgets need not be strained through the purchase of property for a cottage.

When you have paid $9, together with the price of a subscription to The Post you may make a selection of your location at the Beach and begin your plans for a place in which to spend vacations and hold outings. Then, while you are building and later on enjoying the advantages of your summer home, you may pay off the balance at the rate of $3.50 per month.

Summer for 1931 has almost gone, but there are many summers ahead when you will want a place to go over the week-end, where it will not be expensive and yet where all the things which make a resort attractive are to be found. That place is Woodland Beach. It is only 32 miles away and easy to reach over good roads by electric car or by bus line. And it offers bathing, boating, fishing and a dozen other rest and recreational features which make it stand out among the resorts of this section of the country.

Hundreds of Capital residents have bought at the Beach and are planning to build there and watch the community grow. Scores of others already have cottages on the property. Why not you? There are still some choice locations available on the 4½ miles of water front, so act now, before it is too late.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT must be the smart way to travel, at that. I mean by air, in one of these cabin cruisers of the circumambient.

Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, major-domo of Mr. William Harriman Rapley's National Theater, roadstered Mary Loane, leading woman; Myron C. Fagan, author; "Bill" Fields, publicist, who had come by train, and me over to the Washington-Hoover Airport, in a ground temperature of something like 104, to meet Glenn Hunter, star, and Leonard E. Bergman, producer of "Peter Flies High," inaugurating the Capital's season of the so-called legitimate theater tonight at the National, we arrived at our across-the-bridge destination in a state of moist collapse dangerously approaching complete dissolution.

Imagine our envious chagrin, when the huge biplane, with its smoking compartment, kitchenette and trig little hostess had taxied to a stop opposite the biggest mud puddle on the field—and how did that get there, I ask you?—to see Mr. Bergman and Mr. Hunter emerge from the luxurious hold of the ship, looking as cool and impeccably groomed as if they had just stepped out of their baths and away from a brace of punctilious "gentlemen's gentlemen" who had tricked them out in the last word in tropical outfitting!

"How did you enjoy the trip?" we of the parboiled proletariat chirped in unison.

"Oh, very splendid, indeed," replied they, "except that it was a little chilly up there after we got going out of Newark."

Can you imagine?

However, it didn't take long to undo all that. By the time we had reached the machines, Mr. Bergman had decided that it was hot, Mr. Hunter had developed a terrific yen for a bite to eat and a showerbath and the rest of us had concurred that something iced in a tall glass would not be construed as a deadly affront. So to the hotel. And there I picked up a few impressions.

Stripped down to his cold shower Leonard Bergman, a nephew of the late Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, is a showman. His middle initial is "E." standing for Erlanger, and he bids fair to perpetuate the reputation for theatrical acumen for which his distinguished avuncular forebear was so justly renowned.

He feels that in "Peter Flies High" he has a potential hit. There may be a bobble or two on the opening night—tonight, in case the leaves haven't been torn off your calendar, as they should have been—but in Myron C. Fagan's script and the capabilities of Glenn Hunter and Mary Loane, supported by a cast of Washington favorites, he has implicit confidence.

Mr. Bergman is a young man in whose view the theater of bone and sinew is the alpha and omega of amusements. There can be no compromise with the cinema. That is a realm apart, a thing unto itself. This, I take it, is the viewpoint that those engaged in the arts of the traditional theater must embrace if they are to get themselves and their enterprises anywhere worth mentioning.

After "Peter Flies High" there is another Fagan script to be considered —"Hollywood Be Thy Name." A pretentious bit of travesty, this. Having been privileged to scan the script hurriedly, I am in a position to state that "Hollywood Be Thy Name" presents no simple test of stagecraft. It is in prologue, epilogue and some seven episodes and will be a costly production, requiring the services of a director of the first rank, a long and costly cast and a production that would run into money important enough to engage the interest even of a Midas.

And Leonard Bergman will probably do it, at that. That is the way he is gaited.

And this here now Mr. Fagan is all for the theater, too, as opposed to the titillating tintypes—with which he has also had comprehensive experience.

Myron C. Fagan is a writing man who likes to hear his words glide trippingly from the tongue of living players, rather than from a record projected from a shadow through a sheet. Nine months of doctoring scripts for Pathe and a subsequent tour of duty on the Fox lot have taught him that the place to get red-blooded reaction from red-blooded drama is on the boards and not on the movie sets.

The reputed sagacity of many of the "big shots" of Hollywood is just so much thin-sliced bologney to Mr. Fagan. He tells an amusing incident involving a high executive whose identity I have no intention of revealing here.

It seems that this authority on English literature, and infallible guide to the surefire hits in screen stories, boasts that he never attended school a day in his life. But he has read everything. Of all the authors who have appealed to him, Maeterlinck stands first in his estimation. "The Blue Bird" is the classic of classics in his view. In fact, he bragged so much about it, and uttered such heartfelt lamentations that another "Blue Bird" could not be found for the cameras, that Mr. Fagan decided—shortly before his contract was up—to put him to the test.

So he had a considerable portion of "The Blue Bird" typed and given a trick title as an original work by a certain Mr. Wimpus. Our friend thought it terrible. "Every Wimpus that comes along, he should be another Maeterlinck! Phooey!"

Mr. Fagan explained that he had merely thought that Mr. Wimpus had succeeded in catching something of the Maeterlinck symbolism—pronounced sime-bolism by the literary shark—and that his play was at least worth reading.

More phooey.

"Why, you poor benighted sap," quoth Mr. Fagan, blowing up at this juncture, "that is 'The Blue Bird' by Maeterlinck that you have been bragging so much about and without his name on it, you haven't got sense enough to recognize it. What a fine, four-flushing nincom-so-and-so you turned out to be!"

Whereupon Mr. Fagan caught his train back east just one jump ahead of a good swift sock in the nose.

Well, I'm glad to have met up with you socially. I'll be seeing you down front tonight.

Glenn Hunter, who plays the leading role in "Peter Flies High," the opening offering at the National Theater, did some high flying to get to Washington for the opening of the theatrical season. He flew to Washington with Leonard Bergman, producer of the play, and Mary Loane, featured actress. Left to right—W. H. Rapley; an Eastern Air Transport hostess; Miss Loane, Mr. Hunter and Nelson B. Bell, drama editor of The Post. Seated are Mr. Bergman and Myron C. Fagan, author of "Peter Flies High."

Another Chip OFF THE OLD BLOCK

We've just hewed another fair sized chip off the old block that stands between the farmer and you. We mean the expense of bringing food from the men who grow it to the women who cook it.

Last year, after buying food in the best producing sections, it cost us $35.51 a ton to get it to you—an expense which, of course, went into the price you paid.

But this year, by dint of hard work, we've succeeded in chipping the old expense block down to $32.66—a saving to customers of almost $3 on every ton of food we sell.

This is a saving to American housewives of about $300,000 every week of the year.

By keeping the difference between what the farmer receives for food and what you pay for it as small as possible, we can sell food of the highest quality at very low prices.

CROWDER WINS 7TH STRAIGHT, BEATS TRIBE, 7-1

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THEIR exhibition game with the Giants for sweet charity last Wednesday may cost the Yankees dearly in their second-place battle with the Nats if the runner-up contest exists until the final day of the season as is the present indication.

The Yankees postponed a scheduled game with the White Sox in order to play the Giants for the New York unemployed fund and balanced the schedule by listing the Chicago team for a double-header last Saturday. The twin bill was played as scheduled, but the second contest went ten innings to a tie on account of darkness and can not be played off.

The Yankees are booked solidly with other teams from now until the end of the season, and their inability to meet the White Sox in the last of their scheduled games may cost them second place if they are within hailing distance of the Nats. The Yanks, by virtue of their charity gesture are thus deprived of an opportunity to pick up a half game on the Nats which may be sorely needed in the waning days of the campaign.

$400 Difference

Four games remain to be played between the Nats and the Yankees before the season closes. This series on September 23, 24, 25 and 26, closing one day before the season ends.

The difference between second place and third place money last year was a little matter of $400. For finishing second in 1930, the Nats received approximately $1,000 to $600 for the Yankees, who were third. If the difference between the clubs is a half game at the end of the season with the Nats ahead, the Yankees' exhibition game with the Giants will be an object lesson from the old adage that charity begins at home.

But the laws of compensation, which take care of a great many matters, will not let the Yankees suffer for their charity effort. The game with the Giants proved that New York fans wanted a postseason series between the three Metropolitan clubs, including Brooklyn, and the players of the three teams will be cut in on 50 per cent of the gate of the six-game series.

Lead Two Games

The last two days have seen the Yankees figure in much marathon baseball. Three of their last four games have gone extra innings and three have been converted into victories, climaxed by yesterday's double-barrelled win over the Tigers.

By picking up half a game yesterday, the Yanks again reduced Washington's lead to two games and barring a sustained slump by either team or a protracted winning streak, the four-game series at the end of the month will be conclusive as far as second-place is concerned.

The recent successes of Alvin Crowder, which have reached seven straight, augur well for the Nats' chances. Crowder, in form, guarantees at least one victory over the Yankees and Fred Marberry has always been successful against the New York club. They will be Washington's best bets in the four-game battle at Yankee Stadium.

1930 Recalled

As far as second place is concerned, the campaign this season has been a repetition of the 1930 race when the Yankees came along rapidly in the final six weeks of the season and cut down a huge Washington lead to a mere half game before the Nats drew away again to win second money by a comfortable margin.

But the main difference between last year's race and the 1931 season from a Washington standpoint is the Nats' contrasting success against the Yankees. Last year they won 17 of 22 games with the New York club. This year, in 18 games between the two clubs, the Nats have won only eight.

Hotel Tennis Feature to Yeomans

District Star Defeats Morrison; Hunt Wins Twice.

Mitchell Easy Victor; Jacobs Plays Today at Wardman.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

NINE expert racquet brandishers battered their way into the third round of the annual Wardman Park invitation singles championship yesterday on the hotel courts under ideal playing conditions with a gallery of more than 500 lending an appreciative presence to some of the best tennis of the year.

Feature matches were many in the trek of the favorites yesterday, but Eddie Yeomans stole the show with his victory over Donald Morrison, New England junior champion, who battled the seeded No. 2 player to a brilliant 10-8 first set before wilting before the automatic perfection of Yeomans in the second, 6—1.

The match, at times, superseded any tennis seen here this year, as the two youths cracked their shots across the old fish netting as though both held a personal grudge on the tennis ball and on each other.

Morrison Gains Lead.

Morrison jumped into a 4—2 lead in the first set with some of the most ferocious serving, before Yeomans could stem the tide of the left-hander's hard shots. Games see-sawed with service until Yeomans cracked the eventual loser's in the seventeenth game of the set.

Morrison's forehand drives frequently left Yoemans stranded at the net, and his service remained a puzzle until nearly the end. Yoemans showed a more diversified game, blending chops with full-blooded drives and frequently topping them off with brilliant volleys and drop shots.

Dooly Mitchell, seeded No. 4, had an easy time with Frank Taylor, who yielded at 6—1, 6—3. Eddie Jacobs, ranking prima donna of the net rally, did not see action yesterday, but will swing into play today at 4 o'clock, as will Tom Mangan and Fred Roll, all seeded.

Hunt Plays Brilliant Tennis.

Not to be overlooked among yesterday's thrills was the playing of Gilbert Hunt, the District boys' champion, who more than made his presence felt among his senior antagonists. Hunt first accounted for Gene Hermann, clever public parks player, in a bitter three-set match, and then returned to the courts later in the day to dispose of Bill Buchanan, Montrose ace, 5—7, 6—3, 7—5, after trailing, 2—4 and 0—30 in the last set of a match made memorable by brave hitting in the pinches and generally spectacular play throughout.

All honors for hard hitting went to Alan Staubly and Joe Rutley, with Rutley finally succumbing to the busting propensities of the Staubly man.

FIRST ROUND—Hull defeated Gill, 6—4, 8—6; George Considine defeated Beuchelt, 6—0, 6—4; Denman defeated Cowley, 6—3, 8—6; Ladd defeated McVay, 6—0, 5—7, 8—6; Judd defeated Pierce, 6—4, 6—3; Martines and Shannon tied, one set apiece (darkness); Tracy defeated Haney, 6—4, 6—1; Tracy defeated Tomelden, 3—6, 6—1, 6—2; Staubley defeated Rutley, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4; Morrison defeated Burwell, 6—2, 6—4; Buchanan defeated Stam; Hunt defeated Hermann, 3—6, 6—1, 8—6.

SECOND ROUND—Shore defeated Jacob, 6—1, 6—3; Latona defeated Maj. Dorst, 6—2, 6—4; Welsh defeated Trigg, 2—6, 6—3, 6—1; Yeomans defeated Morrison, 10—8, 6—1; Hunt defeated Buchanan, 3—7, 6—3, 7—5; Mitchell defeated Taylor, 6—1, 6—3; Willis defeated Ladd, 3—6, 7—5, 6—1; Marker defeated Judd, 6—2, 6—1; O'Neill defeated Seidel, 7—5, 4—6, 6—3.

Albie Booth Suffering Appendicitis Ailment

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 13 (U.P.).

Albie Booth, diminutive captain of the 1931 Yale Football Team, has suffered an appendicitis attack within a few weeks of the opening of his last season as a college player, it became known today.

"My appendix began to trouble me about a month ago," Booth said. "I went to Coach Mal Stevens and he suggested that I lay low for a while and see if it would get better. After about ten days it improved.

"I don't expect it will trouble me this fall—I hope not, for I'm dead set on playing."

Coach Stevens, who is a physician, advised Booth to rest as much as possible before the opening of practice Tuesday, and Albie took a vacation from his position as an automobile salesman.

Despite Booth's optimism, it is believed the Yale captain will be used much less than if his physical condition was perfect. Charlie Heim, Danbury half back, will see considerable service as a substitute.

Robins Beat Bucs, 6-5, On Double by Wright

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Glenn Wright's double scoring O'Doul and Bissonette was the climax of a three-run ninth inning rally that enabled the Dodgers to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6 to 5 in a one-day stand here today.

The game was notable chiefly for the corporal punishment inflicted upon Fred Heimach, Brooklyn southpaw, who went the route although hit by four hot line smashes back through the box.

Lou Gehrig won the second clash by hitting his forty-third home run of the season with one on in the sixth.

Two homers were the only runs scored off Vernon Gomez and George Uhle in nine innings of the first game. Tony Lazzeri stole home with the winning run in the twelfth.

NURMI WINS RACE.

Berlin, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Paavo Nurmi, who has lost most of his hair and some of his speed with the passing years, again demonstrated his superiority over the rest of Europe's distance runners today.

The veteran Finn ran the 10,000 meters over a track drenched by a 24-hour rain in 31 minutes 19 1-5 seconds, to beat the German, Syring, and Juan Carlos Zabala, in a special race.

PIRATES BUY HURLER.

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 12 (A.P.).—Leon Chagnon, right-hand pitcher, who has won twenty and lost ten games for Fort Worth, of the Texas League, this season, has been sold to the Pittsburgh Pirates, Ted W. Robinson, president of the Fort Worth Club, announced tonight. He will report to the Pirates next spring.

WEISS 7-TO-5 FAVORITE AT FORT

Match With Barry Heads Program for Tonight.

REDS BARRY'S second chance to make considerable progress in the prize ring awaits him tonight at Fort Washington, where he is scheduled to face Sammy Weiss, tough Philadelphia light-heavyweight, in the main event of eight rounds, or less. Other bouts on the card, which will open at 8:30 o'clock, involve mostly local talent, which has provided real fighting at the Fort this summer.

Barry met this same Weiss early last month, but could do no better than a draw. Weiss is the only "big timer" the local redhead has ever faced, and a victory over a boxer of Sammy's reputation would be certain to boost Barry's stock.

Judging from reports Barry tonight will pursue a different course of fighting in than effort to beat the Philadelphia Hebrew, who has defeated Pete Latzo and other stars. In this tiff Reds will throw his dynamite at the very outset instead of waiting until midway the bout, as he did on the previous occasion.

Weiss Piled Up Early Lead.

Weiss piled up a big early lead in the last clash and appeared well on the way to victory when Barry suddenly opened up in the fifth round Sammy was belted all over the ring in the last four chapters.

The betting, however, favors Weiss once more. Sammy probably will enter the ring a 7-to-5 favorite.

Fans who feast on slugging should get their fill out of the six-round semifinal between Gus Edwards, of Baltimore, and Henry Irving, popular Washington boy. This will present a veteran against a comparative novice, but though Irving lacks experience he packs such a wallop in his right hand that he is one of the most feared fighters hereabouts.

Edwards showed hard-hitting proclivities when he battled Billy Schwartz last month at the fort. The Baltimorean was scoring repeatedly with long rights and left hooks before he fell a victim to a stomach blow with which Schwartz was awarded a technical knockout.

Vance and Tucker Meet Again.

A return meeting is listed between Frank Vance, Georgetown law student, and Billy Tucker, former amateur light heavyweight star. Tucker hopes to avenge a knockout defeat in the renewal, while Vance is intent on repeating his triumph.

Caspar Leon, of New York City, grandson of the former bantamweight champion, will appear in one of the quartet of four-rounders against Joe Piscatelli. Nevin Barber, former District amateur featherweight champion, will make his second pro effort with Willie Eschinger as his opponent in another contest.

Leo Giebel Annexes A. A. U. Swim Crown

Lido Beach, N. Y., Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Leo Giebel, veteran New York Athletic Club swimmer, won the 220-yard free style swim of the A. A. U. program held in the Olympic Pool here today. Giebel was timed at 2:35.6. Wallace Spence and Edward Lee, also of N. Y. A. C., were second and third, respectively.

The relay team of Coral Gables, Fla., won the national junior A. A. U. 880-yard relay race in the good time of 10:25.4. The N. Y. A. C. team was second. The three Flanagan brothers, Everett, Ralph and Melvin, and Richard Marshall competed for Coral Gables.

Kellogg Wins On 19th at Argyle

Beats Wood in Club Title Play; Stymie Helps Butler.

Kenwood Semifinal Postponed; Other Golf Results.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

ALTHOUGH William P. DiEste was the medalist in the qualification round of the three championship divisions in the Argyle Club competition, it was announced yesterday that he had been prevented from present participation in the event owing to serious illness from threatened typhoid fever. Consequently, J. G. Reilly, who was paired against him in the first round of match play yesterday, agreed to postpone the match until a later date.

Other features of the first round play were the victory of D. Kellogg over George W. Wood on the nineteenth hole and the fact that Frank G. Butler won his match against Harry Peacock largely by reason of his clever pitching into the cup over an almost impossible stymie laid him by his opponent on the third hole. The matches resulted as follows:

First flight—J. G. Reilly defeated William P. DiEste by default; D. Kellogg defeated George W. Wood, 1 up, 19 holes; J. J. Lynch defeated W. E. Aiken, 4 and 3; Alex Baumgartner defeated Sidney Sherwood, 4 and 3; W. S. Robinson defeated W. H. Arnold, 3 and 1; Frank G. Butler defeated Harry Peacock, 3 and 2; Carl Noetzel defeated J. W. Dudley by default; L. T. Harrison (present club champion) defeated J. T. Kirkpatrick by default.

Second flight—R. W. Prichard defeated W. F. Beasley, 4 and 3; T. N. Sheehan defeated G. Gordon Bailey by default; R. T. Baxter defeated Wilbur A. Taylor, 3 and 2; A. C. Wight defeated E. L. Kilby, 3 and 2; R. L. Lynch defeated Eugene Paravano by default; Edw. W. Burch defeated L. C. Leasure, 2 and 1; H. J. Gallagher defeated E. N. Slack, 1 up; J. H. Seavers defeated R. N. Lawrenson, 1 up.

Third flight—W. T. Allen defeated H. W. Little, 4 and 3; E. V. Carr defeated Frank Zuber, 4 and 3; J. R. St. John defeated L. E. Greene by default; E. C. Mohler defeated R. W. Johnston, 1 up; Ira L. Wright vs. E. R. Sweetman, both defaults; C. J. Sutphin defeated W. Kriemelmeyer by default; G. L. Loving defeated J. T. Walker, 3 up; George Hamilton defeated Ernest Kelly by default.

The semifinal round in the Kenwood championship was postponed yesterday when Walter E. Ayler, paired against A. C. Williams, was unable to play on account of his wife's illness. In the lower half of the bracket, M. Fitzgerald defeated G. C. Brown, 2 up. John C. Shorey, who was expected to win the club championship, was debarred from participating in the event on the ground that he had not appeared in time to play in the qualification round.

Mrs. Von Steinner Wins Title At Beaver Dam.

The women's championship of the Beaver Dam Club, 36-hole medal play competition, was won yesterday by Mrs. Alma von Steinner with a score of 95—96—191. Mrs. Ora Emge, with a card of 108—117—225, was runner-up. Mrs. T. N. Beavers, with 118—109—227, finished third, with Mrs. Carl Mitchell fourth with 109—121—230.

W. A. Johns, with a gross score of 94—25—69, won both the Dulin & Martin and the Sears-Roebuck Cups. L. C. Winters, with 100—30—70, lost out by one stroke. Other leading scores were W. D. Hargett, 99—28—71; H. R. Devilbiss, 91—15—76, and tie for fifth between H. Cooper, 102—23—79, and J. F. Vance, 99—20—79.

In class B for the Desio Cup in the women's championship the winner was Mrs. Don Hutchinson with a card of 130—126—256.

A large field yesterday participated in the annual club handicap championship at the Woodmont Club, Morton Wilner winning the prize for low net with a card of 88—21—67. The pairings and scores for the first round of match play are as follows:

First division—Fulton Brylawski, 90—13—7; vs. M. C. Shapiro, 97—25—72; H. M. Shapiro, 95—22—73, vs. Leopold Freudberg, 92—16—76; Henry Berdorff, 97—22—75, vs. Albert E. Polo Teams to Resume Title Play Tomorrow

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 13 (A.P.).—The first week of play in the national open polo championship has cut the field from six teams to four and left the joint favorites, Santa Paula and the Hurricanes, still in the running.

The third game of the championship will be played Tuesday, the Hurricanes meeting Lewis Lacey's Hurlingham outfit from Buenos Aires. On Wednesday Santa Paula will face Tommy Hitchcock's Green Tree Four.

The survivors of these two matches will clash in the final Saturday.

Hornsby's Pinch Homer Allows Cubs to Split

Chicago, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Guy Bush pitched his second one-hit masterpiece of the season today to give the Cubs an 8-to-1 victory over Boston in the second game of a double-header, after they had won the opener, 11 to 7, on Manager Rogers Hornsby's pinch home run in the eleventh inning.

Bush went into the seventh inning before allowing a hit, and the only blow off his delivery was a clean single by Earl Sheely. The first encounter was packed with sensational plays, the Braves evening the count with two runs in the ninth. Hornsby saved the decision for the Cubs in the eleventh with a line drive over the right-field wall when he batted for Ralston Hemsley.

THREE $20,000 STAKES WILL FEATURE MEETING AT GRAW

Nation's Best Horses Are Eligible

Maryland's Season to Get Under Way Next Monday.

Large Fields Assured in Overnight Tests at Course.

RACING on the major tracks of Maryland will begin on Monday, September 21, at Havre de Grace, followed by Laurel Park, Pimlico and Bowie in the order named.

The Havre de Grace meeting will end on October 3, and the announcement came from the track that Sun Beau, leading money winner of the world, will start in the $20,000 Havre de Grace Handicap on closing day. The distance of this race is a mile and a furlong, and while Sun Beau has won five stakes at this track, his appearance in this race will be the most spectacular of any the Kilmer champion has engaged in at the Harford course, for he has been adding to his fame since he passed the mark set by Gallant Fox in winnings.

The Havre de Grace management is to be congratulated upon its offerings of three $20,000 added stakes at its twelve-day fall meeting, when many other tracks are reducing stake values. This track, which is located 40 miles from any large city—Baltimore being the nearest—and sixty miles from Philadelphia, draws at these great distances a clientile with an average attendance larger than that enjoyed by any New York track.

Potomac to Be Run September 23.

The other $20,000 stakes are the Potomac, for three-year olds, to be run on Wednesday, September 23, in which Twenty Grand and Mate are among the eligibles, and the Eastern Shore, for two-year olds, to be run on September 26, in which C. V. Whitney has several eligibles, including Top Flight.

In addition to Sun Beau, Willis Sharpe Kilmer is sending to Havre de Grace Sun Memory, Dark Magnet, Dark Seeker, and several other young horses. The Middleburg Stable's horses and those of William Zeigler (Mrs. Zeigler owns the Middleburg horses), will be prominent at this and other Maryland tracks, and Spinach, formidable in his three-year old form, is said to be coming into form again.

The Sagamore Stable of Mrs. Charles Amory will race a large contingent in Maryland including Balko, kingpin of sprinters.

The Sylvester Labrot, H. G. Bedwell, C. V. Whitney, Greentree, J. E. Widener and Belair Stud are among the others who have entered liberally in the Maryland stakes. Glen Riddle Farm, Walter M. Jeffors and the du Ponts are others to race large stables in the Line State.

Racing to Start at 2:15 O'Clock.

Racing will begin at Havre de Grace at 2:15 each day. Entries close at 10:30 a. m. the day before the race; scratches at 8:30 a. m., on the day of the race. No horse shall carry less than 100 pounds. No purse in overnight races shall be less than $1,300 in value. Seven races will be run daily.

Spengler Post Wins Intercity Loop Game

Spengler Post, champions of the midgset section of The Post's Capital City League, defeated the Rainier Cardinals of Baltimore before a crowd of 2,000 fans on the South Ellipse yesterday by a score of 2 to 1. Bauer accounted for both of Spengler's runs, scoring the first himself on an error in the fourth inning, and driving over Chaconas, who had tripled, with the winning marker in the ninth. Butzby, of the visitors, clouted a home run in the sixth inning.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

MOST swimmers use their feet far more than their hands and arms in breaking records, but not so with Charles (Zimmy) Zibelman. He uses only his arms for he is legless. Yet this did not stop Zimmy when he recently set out to break the world's endurance swimming mark in the War Memorial Pool at Honolulu. Despite his lack of nether extremities for pushers, this unique aquatic star swam continuously 100 hours and 15 seconds.

William MacCorkell is an old tinsmith. Though 86 years of age, he finds that being idle is too much work, hence the tin can chair. In making the unique chair, MacCorkell used 173 tomato, corn, bean, salmon, soup, and milk, cans soldered together. He claims that the chair not only is odd, but has sitting qualities seldom, if ever, to be found in ordinary furniture. It took him 50 hours on and off to gather enough cans and complete the job.

Although Henry C. Glissmon has never played golf, he is considered an authority on what should and should not go into the making of a good course. He owns and operates the Valley View and the Dundee links in Omaha, and another nearby that he has not yet named. Like the bartender who never takes a drink, Glissman is satisfied to let others tear up the turf and spends his time replacing it.

—Lincoln Fields Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 13.—Sprinters will hold the spotlight on the program at Lincoln Fields tomorrow, which is featured by the Publix Purse, a 7-furlong dash for 3-year-olds and upward, under allowance conditions. A field of fourteen speedsters will parade to the post to contest the $1,500 purse of the main attraction.

FIDDLER, from the A. Pelleteri Stable, which finished gamely last start at 1 mile, will favor the shorter route of the feature, and on his present form figures to take the measure of this field. SISTER ZOE has shown improvement in previous outings, and a recent second to Chief John in a fast-run mile stamps the Four Oaks color bearer as the contender. QUATRE BRAS II raced with the top notchers and should get a part of the purse.

FIRST RACE—PARFAIT, from the Dixiana string, raced consistently in her Kentucky campaign and, with several fast trials to her credit, is given the call over the nineteen maiden juvenile fillies pitted against her in the opening 6-furlong dash. SUSU and CELTIC QUEEN should take down the remainder of the purse.

SECOND RACE—Another large field of 3-year-old platers will face the barrier in the 6 furlongs of the second event. BARENY SEXTON has beaten some highly regarded equines, and on his best form should account for the major prize. MONTGOMERY MAID disappointed last start, when installed favorite, but should improve enough to gain the place, with PLUMAGE favored to annex the minor award.

THIRD RACE—The third event, fashioned for 2-year-old colts and geldings, attracted a limit field to contest the purse over the 6-furlong distance. CURMUDGEON, another from the Pelleteri string, should give that owner a double. The Wildair colt has been training briskly since his last winning effort and figures to score. RUFFIAN is given the place call, with SIMPLE SINGER selected for the show.

FOURTH RACE—SEGURO appears well suited by the conditions of the fourth event, which brings together a field of six sterling milers to battle it out. The La Brae Stable's silk carrier turned in a splendid effort last start to step this distance in 1:36 3-5, which duplicated here would return him the winner. ISLAM weakened over a route in his previous effort and is better suited here. MAD CAREER is favored for the show award.

SIXTH RACE—A cheap band of maiden 3-year-olds will be dispatched over the mile and a sixteenth route of the sixth. DUSKY BOY has been freshened up and appears best of this group of nonwinners. DIODORO finished second last start and should go as well here. IRRITATION has worked well and appears best of the others.

SEVENTH RACE—In the final test at a mile and a sixteenth distance, ten 3-year-olds and upward will match strides, with WILLA from the J. Spencer Stable, favored to romp to an easy victory. Last start, this daughter of Pataud stepped the route in 1:44 1-5 and appears ready to contest the issue with CHUM. The latter has not raced since his last effort at Latonia and may need an outing. However, the H. C. Hopper 6-year-old is given the place call. PROSE AND POETRY has raced consistently in recent efforts and is favored for the minor award.

GARDENCARD HEADS RING PROGRAM

Jackie Fields to Face Young Terry in Indoor Inaugural.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles, former world's welterweight champion, comes to New York this week for the second time in his career to headline the first important boxing card of Madison Square Garden's 1931-32 indoor season.

Fields, who made his first and only appearance in New York in February, 1929, when he defeated Baby Joe Gans, battles the young and rugged Trenton, N. J., slugger, Young Terry, in the ten-round feature at the garden Thursday night.

Another Trentonian, Paulie Walker, meets Vincent Hambright, Cincinnati middleweight, in the ten-round semifinal, and My Sullivan, veteran St. Paul middleweight, tackles Solly Krieger, of New York, in the first ten.

Metropolitan district fans will be offered one other big-time card, with Charley Retzlaff, Duluth, and Steve Hamas, Passaic, N. J., both on the Tuesday night card of the Queensboro Stadium. Retzlaff, whose sensational winning streak recently was stopped by Joe Sekyra, veteran Dayton heavyweight, will meet Gene Stanton, a newcomer from Cleveland. Hamas, who has been bowling over the lesser heavyweights with reckless abandon, tangles with Pat Hayward, of Philadelphia.

Hudkins Continues His Pursuit of Heavies.

Of the other boxing centers, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Hartford, Conn., have the leading offerings. At Los Angeles, Ace Hudkins, erstwhile Nebraska wildcat, continues his campaign among the heavyweights in a ten-rounder with Dynamite Jackson, of Santa Monica, Calif., Tuesday night.

At Hartford, Tuesday, Christopher (Bat) Battalino, world's featherweight title-holder, encounters the Chicago veteran, Eddie Shea, in a ten-round nontitle bout.

Reds Win First, 1-0; Giants Take Second, 9-4

Cincinnati, Sept. 13 (A.P.).—The New York Giants divided a doubleheader with the Cincinnati Reds here today, dropping the first game 1 to 0 and taking the nightcap, 9 to 4. Larry Benton held the Giants to five scattered hits in the first game while Bill Walker, McGraw's star lefthander, allowed the Reds but seven bingles. The Giants, however, hopped all over Bennie Frey in the second game, scoring six runs in the first three innings, driving him to cover and enabling them to coast to victory.

COMMERCE VS. CONSTRUCTION

Rivals Clash Today in Series

Departmental Loop Champs Favored to Win Title.

Eldbrooke Is "Dark Horse" in Annual Play-Off Race.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.	Pct.		W.	L.	Pct.
Commerce	11	6	.647	Eldbrooke	11	10	.500
G. P. O.	11	6	.647	Construction	11	13	.350

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

WITH the week-day championship series entering its second and final week today selecting the winner is still a task for one adept at guessing. Constructioneers, champions of the Industrial League, after being acclaimed the stand-out team of the series, and downing Commerce in the first game by an 8-to-0 score, did a complete about face and dropped its next three games, to sink to last place in the standing of the teams.

The team has been getting good pitching from Jewett and Usilton, but the fielders have executed a perfect nose dive. The inability of Bill Jenkins to maneuver himself into position to catch the hard line drives and weak pop flies that come his way has greatly hindered the team, and on one occasion was the cause of its losing a game.

Snyder's Natural Berth Is Catching.

Bob Snyder, at shortstop, is another whose work has been bad, but Snyder is a born catcher, and no amount of drilling will ever make a first class infielder of him. Each time he whips one to first it looks like a peg from the catcher to second base.

Commerce will win the title if Leon Riley's arm holds out. The smooth-working Alexandrian hurled his team to victory over Eldbrooke and G. P. O. and did a finished job of it. Shout Taylor, who lost to the Constructioneers, and was tied by the Churchmen, twirled well in both games, but one bad inning in each cost him the victory. Riley, however, injured his arm last week, and it may be up to Taylor to shoulder the brunt of the burden, with what aid he can get from Kearney.

Commerce has one of the best, if not the best, fielding team in the series, but is inconsistent in its stickwork. The same players that pound out twelve hits one day may get only two or three the next, and a clever left-hand pitcher can slow up the team to a walk.

Government Printing Office needs a good catcher before it can hit its true stride. Al Schneider, while a smooth receiver, and one of the brainiest on the sandlots, is handicapped by his ailing throwing arm.

Eldbrooke Seen as Dark Horse in Race.

Schneider works like a Trojan putting everything he has behind his throws, but it is not enough. Rieman and Mealy, the substitute backstoppers, can neither handle themselves behind the plate like Al, nor do they even approach him when it comes to batting.

In the Eldbrooke M. E. aggregation we have the dark horse of the race. Entering the series as the underdog, the Churchmen have played havoc with all of their opponents' championship aspirations. Bob Freeman, "Wild Bill" Payne, Scheele and Jim Thompson, the big four, have carried the team through three games, winning one, losing one, and gaining a tie with Commerce after losing to that team earlier in the race. Unless the school bell rings too soon and recalls the boys to the classroom, Eldbrooke is going to have a big piece to speak when it comes to crowning the winner.

Commerce stacks up against Constructioneers today at 4:15 p. m. on the South Ellipse, and G. P. O. meets Eldbrooke tomorrow, in games that will have an important bearing on the title. The Departmental League champs lost their first encounter with the Builders because of one bad inning, and they will be out today bent on obtaining revenge and also to strengthen their position in the race. The outcome of the fray between G. P. O. and the Churchmen will also mean much to Commerce.

Irvington Will Play In Grid League Here

The Apaches, Mohawks, Celtics and the Irvington Club, of Baltimore, will comprise the football league to play at Griffith Stadium on Sundays during the coming season, it was indicated last night. Plans for the league, to open October 11, will be completed this week.

The addition of the Baltimore team, which is well known here, will assure the league an even battle in every game.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 13.—Columbia Firefighters retained their lead in the Alexandria city series today, defeating the Colonials, 7-4. The Del Ray Redbirds also won from the Colonials in the night-cap game on Duncan's Field, 16-6. By winning this game the Del Ray boys pulled to within a full game of the Columbias.

In the other City League tussle, the Nation-wide tossers won their first victory in seven starts, defeating Sylvester Breen's Cardinals, 3-0. This contest was played on Haydon's Field. Simpson toiled for the winners. He granted the Breenmen four scattered hits.

Alexandria Series Ends Sunday.

Next Sunday the Alexandria City series will end. The Columbias and Del Ray A. C. will clash in the feature attraction. A victory for the firemen will give them the undisputed title and the Sylvester A. Breen Trophy, while, if the Redbirds cop, they will go into a tie with the Columbias and a play-off will be necessary.

In the other games on the program, the Del Rayans play, the Cardinals and the Nation-wide and Colonials clash at 3 o'clock.

CELTICS BOW TO SKINKER NINE, 4-2

Boerner Wins Mound Duel From Beall, Ex-Yankee.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 13.—Larry Boerner, Toledo castoff, after three attempts scaled the St. Mary's Celtics nine today for the Skinker Bros.' Eagles, 4 to 2, in one of the best-played games in Baggett's Stadium this season.

Walter Beall, late star with the Central Power Co. of Altoona, Pa., who also pitched for the Nationals and the Yankees in the "big tent," gunned for the Virginians.

Buscher Credited With Freak Homer.

Two costly breaks, one a fluke homer by Buscher with Taylor on first, the result of a fielder's choice, and a smashing two-base knock by Bennie, followed by a slow tap out of the infield by Hilleary to tally Bennie, netted the Eagles enough runs to win the game. Buscher's homer struck a stone in the outer garden and bounced into the high grass. He easily made the circuit while Hamilton hunted for the ball.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN CAPABLE?

I HAVE before me a directory of this city issued 50 years ago. I have been running through its advertising pages as well as the list of names and places. I am impressed by the names that have disappeared. In most cases the outstanding business concerns of half a century ago have disappeared—some by one route and some by another. In that day it was the custom to designate a business by the names of its owners.

In the majority of instances there are no descendants of those originating owners either in control of such businesses as have survived, or given in the directories as associated with the business, or even as a part of the community.

The thought that this stimulates is that a man may have great business foresight but, for one reason or another, he may not provide for the continuance of his own line of descent. His success certainly has convinced him that he is a superior man—a leader among his fellows. He should have enough egotism to think that his progeny should be superior to the progeny of less capable men.

He claims with pride that his business is one of the rocks on which his city or his State rests and, to that degree at least, he is a public benefactor. If he is willing to build one of those foundations for the city's welfare, he might also give some consideration to perpetuating his superior stock for the sake of the State as well as that of his business.

And yet we find little evidence that the powerful men have taken thought of their own family eugenics as a part of the responsibilities of position and power. The families of the Presidents lend themselves rather easily to investigation of the subject. Suppose we limit ourselves to those born more than 100 years ago, since that plan has the advantages of being remote enough not to offend; by giving some time for descendants to show their capacities; and the group is large enough to make a study of some value.

Those born 100 years ago, or more, include all from Washington to Cleveland. First, we are struck by the considerable number who had no children. Next, by the number who had children but no boys to carry on the name. The list runs from Washington to Van Buren—almost 50 years with no boys except in the families of the Adamses. Among the descendants of the earlier Presidents there are none who bear the family names except Adams and Harrison until we reach Gen. Grant.

About 125 years ago Thomas Lincoln married and started his family. In that family was Abraham Lincoln. But today there is no descendant bearing the name of Lincoln. About the same time Robert S. Todd married and started his family. In that family there were 16 children, one of whom became the wife of Abraham Lincoln. Today there are a few descendants of Robert Todd, but among them there is no one bearing the name Todd.

It may be that no President has ever thought of it as being a part of his duty to beget superior children, and to train them to carry on when he left off. It is in accordance with experience elsewhere that among the descendants of superior men who would have served as President there would have been many superior people whose services society needed.

In this the Presidents are used merely as illustrations. What is said of them applies to the superior people in other walks of life.

May Be Something Else.

A French mother writes:

1 What is the cause of hay fever in a child two years of age?

2. Is it contagious long?

3. Is it necessary to keep the child indoors?

Reply.

1. If it is hay fever it is because the child is sensitive to pollen and there is an excess of pollen in the air breathed.

2. It is not contagious.

3. That is one method of treatment. Some use it with satisfaction. Are you certain your child has hay fever? He may be sensitized to something else, such as rats, mice, cats, dogs, birds.

"Bossy" Gillis to Call Weekly "The Asbestos"

Newburyport, Mass. (U.P.).—Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis hopes to publish the first issue of his weekly newspaper early in October, and says he will call it The Asbestos.

"It'll be full of plenty of hot stuff about any of those guys who think they can lick Bossy," Gillis said in explaining his selection of the name.

The paper will be primarily political, designed to reelect "Bossy" over four or more other prospective mayoralty candidates.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

SCHOOLGIRL CHIC.

It has no much snap and it has practicality, too.

The buttons down the front from neck to hem and low placement of the skirt plaits, give it smart distinction.

A dark green sheer woolen in tweed effect made the original. White pique finished the neck and sleeves. Brown bone buttons and brown patent leather belt added smart contrast, so important in the mode.

Style No. 178 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. The 8-year size requires 2¼ yards of 39-inch material with ⅜ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

And to make it. It's a one-piece affair with the plaited insets stitched to the sides.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

GAS, RAZOR, POISON USED AS 2 MEN AND WOMAN TAKE LIVES

Concern Over Work Blamed as Standards Bureau Attorney Is Suicide.

GIFT SHOP PROPRIETOR WORRIED BY BUSINESS

Third Victim Was Despondent Following Separation From Husband.

Three cases of suicide were reported to police headquarters yesterday, two men and one woman.

Worry over his work is believed to have actuated the suicide of Thomas Michael Curran, 33 years old, an attorney at the Bureau of Standards, who was found by his wife in the bathroom of their home with his jugular vein slashed with a razor.

Emergency Hospital ambulance was summoned to the Curran home at 1228 I street northeast. Dr. M. W. Glover, of the hospital staff, pronounced Mr. Curran dead. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of suicide.

Motive Not Known.

His wife, Mrs. Ada Curran, could give no motive for the act. For the past few months, his friends said, he had been working arduously at his post in the Bureau of Standards. Only recently the strain of his work necessitated a sick leave.

Mrs. Curran said her husband was apparently in a good mood early yesterday, and they had planned to go to a show yesterday afternoon. When she called him for breakfast she received no response. Mrs. Curran found him in the bathtub with his throat slashed.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Curran, and four brothers, Robert, Frank, William and Fred Curran, all of Providence, R. I. All his brothers are lawyers.

Married Two Years.

He came to Washington 15 years ago, and was a graduate of Georgetown University Law School. He was married two years ago.

Funeral services will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Friends blamed worry over his business affairs as the cause of the death by gas of Samuel Ray Ferguson, 60 years old, Oak Crest, Va., gift shop proprietor.

The man's body was found on the floor of his "Apple Tree Gift Shop" at 1172 Eighteenth street northwest, about noon yesterday by J. H. Bittenbender, Arlington County justice of the peace. The body was discovered in a kitchen on the second floor, with four jets from a gas stove turned on.

Planned Visit Today.

Mr. Bittenbender, who was a close friend of Mr. Ferguson, received several telephone calls from the gift shop proprietor Saturday night, and promised to visit him yesterday.

The call was set for yesterday morning, but Mr. Bittenbender took his children to church before coming to Washington. When he reached the gift shop he found the doors locked, and he smelled gas.

He immediately called Third Precinct police. With them he forced the door to find his friend dead on the second floor.

Mrs. Ferguson, who operated the gift shop, was in Canada purchasing antiques for its stock. She was at Halifax when notified of her husband's death. She will return home immediately.

The victim, according to friends, had been operator of the Duck Inn in Arlington County, which closed last Thursday.

Funeral services for Mr. Ferguson will be held Friday from Gawler's funeral parlors.

Swallowed Poison.

Members of the Fire Rescue Squad yesterday morning failed in an attempt to revive Mrs. William Van Lear, 31 years old, after she had swallowed poison at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. D. Miller, at 5124 Kansas avenue northwest.

She died shortly after the arrival of the squad. According to relatives, Mrs. Van Lear, who was employed in a government department here, had been despondent following separation from her husband.

She was discovered by William De Chard, of 317 Eighteenth street northwest, who was visiting at the house. A certificate of suicide was issued by the coroner.

Miss Vernoll Berry Tops Kallipolis Grotto Field

Miss Vernoll Berry, 825 Fourteenth street northwest, is ahead of the field in the Kallipolis Grotto Miss Personality contest with 111,650 votes, leading Miss Doris Wildman, of Ballston, Va., by 2,150 votes. Rose Novak, 841 N street southwest, is third in the contest with 108,400 ballots against 400 less for Miss Grace Abell, of 1111 Owen place northeast, and 107,800 for Ann Smith, who stands fifth in the running.

Two more weeks remain for the 35 now in the competition, they being the survivors of an original field of 57. The others stand in the following order: Miss S. Seigel, Virginia Harding, Thelma Smith, Ray Kluft, Muriel Ayres, Mary Shadid, Blance Scruggs, Pauline Zimmerlie, Louise Arbuckle, May Langue, Ada May Elrod, Margarita Morisi, Virginia Hughes, Olivier Bruffey, Florence Parris, Ida Schooler, Frances Williams, Boots Treger, Nicie Perrell, Louise Kelly, Ruth Wynn, Lillian Shear, Mildred Whittington, Katherine Taylor, Helen Wheeler, Margaret Davis, Helen Herbert and Grace Hawkins.

Legion to Nominate At Meeting Tonight

Lincoln Post of the American Legion will nominate officers for the coming year at its meeting tonight. Final arrangements will be made at that time for members who will attend the national convention of the legion in Detroit, September 21.

Because of its recently increased membership the post has been forced to seek larger quarters and the meeting tonight will be held at Hillcrest, 2800 Thirteenth street northwest. Maj. E. P. Van Hise will preside.

Remapping of U. S. Urged as Jobs Aid

New York Senators Agree to Sponsor Plan at Next Congress Session.

A new scheme for affording Nationwide employment for a large group of persons was revealed yesterday by the Regional Plan Association of New York, which hopes to further the mapping of all important areas of the United States on a scale to assure precise and accurate topographical data and produce a new composite map of the United States on such a scale.

Senators Royal S. Copeland and Robert F. Wagner have agreed to sponsor legislation at the next session of Congress which will broaden the scope of activities of the United States Geological Survey in order that the Federal Government may cooperate with States and municipalities, according to the association.

"The object of the legislation is threefold," according to a statement of the association. "It will perform a highly important public service, furnish for a period of years employment to skilled and unskilled labor locally throughout the country, and derive ultimately an indirect profit to States and municipalities through stimulation of commercial development and resulting increase in taxable values."

BOARD MEETS TODAY ON STAPLES INQUIRY

Organization Session to Be Held After Members Get Notification.

As soon as the members receive formal notification of their appointments an organization meeting will be held. Those appointed to the board are Henry P. Blair, Col. Walter C. Clephane, Col. J. Miller Kenyon, Daniel W. O'Donoghue and Stanton C. Peele.

The board will review the grand jury's recommendations that Staples be reinstated and those who caused his dismissal be punished. It also will review other cases of the grand jury's report. If the board decides that the grand jury's excoriation of the Police Department and its recommendations on the Staples case are well founded the case will be given to a civilian trial board.

Prominent members of trade and civic groups will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon with the District Commissioners. Names will be submitted to the Commissioners for consideration for membership on the civilian trial board, if such a body is needed after the investigative board's review.

SOLOMON'S WISDOM CREDITED TO PRAYER TO LEARN GOODNESS

Rev. Robert Shores Declares Secret Lies in Knowing What Is Evil.

TEACHING OF CHILDREN IS URGED BY MINISTER

Need of Public Conscience Is Cited in Sermon at St. Margaret's.

"Solomon's Secret" was the subject of a sermon delivered by the Rev. Robert Shores yesterday morning at St. Margaret's Church, Connecticut avenue and Bancroft place.

Outlining evidences of Solomon's great wisdom, Dr. Shores said that the explanation, or secret, of his great understanding is not to be found in a study of what he knew, but rather in the fact that he prayed, "Give, therefore, thy servant, an understanding heart that I may discern good from evil."

"To know good from bad, to be able to detect evil, no matter under what guise it presents itself, this is the very groundwork and corner stone of wisdom," the preacher said.

Dr. Shores pointed out many current examples of persons who had the finest education possible and all the advantages that a home could offer them, but who proved that they were unable to distinguish between right and wrong, which eventually got them into trouble. "It is the sad result of technical education without corresponding moral education," he said.

Gang Conditions Cited.

In speaking of gang conditions and applying his topical theme of distinction between good and evil, Dr. Shores said, "have we forgotten that we once knew good from bad or have we allowed ourselves to be persuaded that murder is also a mere matter of the mode of the moment and that murderers, like nudists, and others of atavistic tendencies, should be allowed to go their ways in peace, since to the pure all things are pure?

"Insane art and obscene music are not entitled to reverence merely because they came into being in a period of great inventions; loose living or a low ethical standard is not a necessary concomitant of an advance in mechanical appliances; nor does a sincere desire for the peace of the world necessarily imply willingness to surrender supinely to attacks on heart and home," he said.

In describing the easy evolution from an appreciation of what is right to a careless attitude in which the distinction between right and wrong, under direction of Miss Charlotte step from indifference to private immorality to indifference to malfeasance in office or to public outrage. We need a public conscience and this can only be obtained by rousing the Teaching of Children.

"Children must be taught to know good from evil. The future of this country depends upon the stand taken by those who profess to follow Jesus Christ not as a church lobby but as individual citizens."

Dr. Shores explained that it is not the duty of the church to take action or legislate in seeing that people do the right thing, but rather the church's duty to teach the difference between right and wrong and from that point on it is a problem demanding individual attention.

"Our children can not learn to know good from evil unless they learn to know God at first hand, at home, by personal experience, in their own lives and in the lives of those who assumed full responsibility before God when they brought them into the world," Dr. Shores concluded.

The Rev. Berkley Griffith, of the St. Margaret's staff, assisted in the service.

Police "Arrest King" Relieved From Duty

Raymond Sinclair Lays Suspension to Party At His Home.

Raymond B. Sinclair, of the Traffic Bureau, who in 1929 earned the title of "world champion" for the number of cases made by an individual policeman, was last night suspended from the Police Department.

Police officials decline to give the reason for Sinclair's suspension. Inspector Albert J. Headly said the action was taken on the recommendation of Sergt. R. B. Carroll, acting lieutenant of the Thirteenth Precinct. Sergt. Carroll would comment no further than to say that the Traffic Bureau man had been suspended.

Sinclair believes the suspension was the result of a social gathering of a group of friends at his home, 5218 Illinois avenue northwest, Friday night.

He said that Sergt. Carroll appeared at his home about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon and informed him that he was under suspension. Sinclair said that when he asked the reason, Carroll replied: "For the other night's effects."

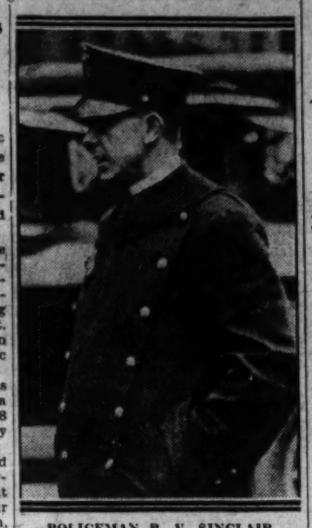
Carroll refused to amplify this statement, according to the suspended policeman, and Sinclair turned over his badge and police equipment without further comment.

Sinclair said that he had invited a group of friends to his home Friday night and that they spent the evening dancing to the music of the radio. About midnight most of his guests left, he related.

A few remained and his wife, who is hard of hearing, was engaged in a discussion with another woman who was on the party. Because of his wife's deafness, Sinclair said, it was necessary for the other woman to raise her voice in talking to her.

"I thought it was getting late," Sinclair declared, "and decided that I would break up the party. I went to the telephone and called the Thirteenth Precinct myself and told the man on the desk to ask the policeman on the beat to drop by the house.

"I figured he would come to the door and I would speak to him and then go in and tell my guests that the man on the beat said we were making too much noise and then every one would go home. Instead of the man on the beat appearing, however, Sinclair went on, a police car stopped in front of the house and Sergt. Carroll and Privates Cheney and Wessells and another policeman whose name he does not know, got out and came in.



POLICEMAN R. V. SINCLAIR.

The four policemen walked into the rooms and talked for a few moments and then went out, Sinclair said. Then, after every one, including his guests, had left, Sinclair said he and his wife prepared to retire.

Before they snapped off the lights Sinclair said he heard the dog bark and going to the top of the steps saw the shadow of two men on the front porch.

He found Cheney and Wessells there. Cheney told him that he was still making too much noise, Sinclair said. Sinclair said he told Cheney that he would see there was no more noise.

Sinclair has been a member of the Police Department for thirteen years. He is probably one of the best known members of the Traffic Bureau. According to files of The Post, he was declared "world's champion arrester" when he made 3,482 arrests in one year and obtained convictions in all but 13 cases. All were for minor traffic violations.

He was severely injured October 17, 1929, while chasing an automobile out New Hampshire avenue. His motorcycle threw him at Rock Creek Church road, and he was unconscious in a hospital for five days. He has never fully recovered from his injuries.

NINE ARE INJURED AS 2 AUTOS CRASH AT HILL'S SUMMIT

Touring Cars Meet Head-On at Hyattsville Corner; One Demolished.

3 OF VICTIMS CHILDREN; ONE DRIVER VANISHES

Colored Man Had Been Hired by Woman Owner of Philadelphia Machine.

Nine persons were injured yesterday when a high-powered touring car bound from Philadelphia to Washington crashed into another car on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard at Arundel avenue in Hyattsville. All of the injured were brought to Providence Hospital by the Prince Georges County rescue squad. Three small children were among the injured.

William Francis Randolph, 30 years old, of 441 Tennessee avenue northeast, was proceeding north on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard, in his automobile he had owned but three days. He was turning into Arundel avenue, police were told, when the Philadelphia car appeared over the hill.

It crashed into the front of the Randolph car and overturned. Mr. Randolph's automobile was demolished.

Three Children in Car.

Riding with Mr. Randolph was his wife, Mrs. Verna Randolph, 30 years old; her daughter, Margerie L. Love, 11 years, and their two other children, Frances Pearl, 5, and Raymond Edward, 2, and Mrs. Fannie Tripplett, 45, of 1239 H street northeast.

Mrs. Triplett was apparently the most severely injured. She suffered possible fractures of the skull and ribs, a deep cut on the back of her head, and was unconscious for some time after she was taken to the hospital. Margerie received a fracture of the skull. All of the other passengers in Mr. Randolph's car suffered cuts and bruises and shock.

A man and two women were extricated from the overturned Philadelphia car—which bore Ohio license plates. At the hospital they said their names were Thomas Seddon, Mrs. Mary Murphy and Mrs. Albert Grindel, all of Philadelphia.

Hired Colored Man to Drive.

Mrs. Grindel, who said she owned the car, told police that she had driven from Philadelphia until the party reached a point not far from Baltimore. Then she began to feel ill, she said, and stopped to hire a colored man to drive.

Hyattsville police are holding the chauffeur, Wilbur A. Radcliff, of Baltimore, in connection with the accident.

While physicians were treating these accident victims, John Clarence Bennett, 22 years old, of 303 D street southeast, and William Jones, of 313 Pennsylvania avenue, were brought in for treatment of cuts suffered in a crash at Third and D streets southeast. Mr. Jones refused hospital attention.

The accident, according to police reports, occurred when Mr. Bennett's car struck that of Frank T. Desonski, 28 years old, of 624 B street southwest. Jones was a passenger in the latter automobile.

Wallace Barrow, 35 years old, of 302 D street southeast, and Augustus Corey, of 26 Quincy place northeast, passengers in Mr. Bennett's machine, escaped injury in the accident.

FOUR DIMENSIONS OF LIFE RECOUNTED

Chevy Chase Pastor Says Misuses Indicate Man's Ignorance of Living.

The Rev. J. Hillman Hollister, of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, Connecticut avenue and Chevy Chase Parkway, spoke at the regular Sunday morning service yesterday on "Being Alive."

"Our misuses of life indicate our ignorance on what life really is," Dr. Hillman said. "Practically life is of four dimensions.

"The first is height. Some lives loom like mountain peaks. Their height is in their cleanness, their gentleness, their courage. Their lives have height.

"The second dimension is depth. By this I mean with foundations deep enough to hold a life fast," Dr. Hillman explained. "They have found God and their lives are God-set and God-braced. Nothing hurts them or moves them. Conditions may hurt their fortunes, their popularity, and perhaps their health, but not them. Their lives have depth.

"The third dimension is breadth. The measure of the breadth of a life is the distance of its reach away from self and toward others. How broad are they who after the manner of Jesus live for the good that they can do and who find their own happiness in the happiness they bring to others, and who by their sympathy and prayer and means have broadened themselves to include neighbors, nations, races and even enemies.

"The fourth dimension is length. However little we know about the future one thing is reasonably clear and that is that the future is the spiritual continuation of the present. It is the future that gives length to the present—that is, to the spiritual present—which, of course, leads to the question, How am I getting on with this spiritual present of mine, this spiritual capacity, this immortal soul? In Christ we have both the example of what everyone might do with his life and also the power that everyone needs who would do likewise," Dr. Hollister concluded.

Bradford Bayliss has come to the Chevy Chase Church as director of religious education. Mr. Bayliss is a graduate of Oberlin College and took a master's degree at Columbia. He has had considerable Y. M. C. A. experience and will superintend the large church school which now numbers 600.

The new church school building which will join the church is to be started in a few weeks. It will be used exclusively for school work and week day activities.

Four More Police To Be Questioned

First Precinct Group to Face U. S. Inquiry in "Third Degree."

Additional First Precinct policemen were ordered to report to the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation last night in connection with the "third degree" investigation. The investigation started with that precinct when James Henry Harker made his sensational charges that he had been beaten with a rubber hose on August 22.

Four privates were to report last night at 7:30 o'clock, but information at the precinct station was that the men could not be located. The men named in the order from headquarters were W. R. Ellery, A. E. Brown, R. P. Kelly and W. J. Kerns.

The Department of Justice is expected to turn additional charges of police brutality over to the District grand jury for action some time during this week. Five policemen, all of the First Precinct, have been indicted on charges of assault in connection with the first batch of cases made by the undercover men.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE KING AND QUEEN CUT "SALARIES."

"King George has cut $250,000 from his civil list income in order to help relieve the strain on the treasury."—News item.

KING GEORGE—Everybody's cutting salaries and it would be a splendid gesture if we did something of the sort, don't you think?

Queen Mary—I suppose we could manage to worry along on a little less, George, dear. What are we getting now, anyhow?

King—I haven't the figures handy, but it's something like £470,000 from the civil list, and then there's what the Ducky of Lancaster chips in each year.

Queen—It seems like a lot of money but we never have anything at the end of the year.

King—It all goes for upkeep. We get good money for being king and queen, but look at what we have to pay out to run the jobs. We have a pay roll like a circus. Just how many servants have we in our employ at present?

Queen (trying to figure)—I'd have to look at the books, but it's something like 4,000.

King—Does that include footmen, equerries and first-class stablemen?

Queen—Oh, no. It's quite exclusive of footmen. I've never had time to count the footmen.

King—The place is cluttered up with help, but there'd be a frightful howl if we fired even a few dozen butlers. We'll have to economize some other way. What would you suggest, dear?

Queen—We could save heaps of money if we could only abandon some of those ceremonials and parades.

King—Now you're shouting, Mary. Life with us seems a round of parades, receptions and memorial services. I'm sick of 'em. We ought to cut 'em out.

Queen—But how? You forget it's all a tradition. The people expect it of us.

• • • •

KING (dejectedly)—Sometimes I wish we could lock the doors of Buckingham Palace and not answer the doorbells. England has too darned many anniversaries that have to be commemorated by ceremonials and parades. I often wish the country could forget its glorious past. It's always celebrating a sea fight or something. And that sort of thing costs money.

Queen—Why, George Hanover! How you talk!

King—Well, I mean it. We ought to retrench on that sort of thing until the depression is over.

Queen—We'll just have to economize on general running expenses, that's all. You'll have to help. You can give up a few grouse hunts.

King—Of course, my dear. Of course.

Queen—Oh, you'll say you'll help but you'll go blowing in a load of money on those yachts of yours. The bills for varnish, white paint, putty and new anchor lines this year were frightful. And you spent an awful lot repairing leaks.

King—Now don't rub it in on what I spend on boats. Look at all the money you spend for parasols!

Queen—I used 3,000 fewer parasols last year than in 1929. I think you're awful to twit me on little things like parasols.

King—Now, Mary, don't fly off the handle. I'm sorry. All I'm saying is that we'll both have to trim in our sails a bit. We can do it in lots of ways. We can buy a cheaper grade of harness used in imperial processions, cut down on horse feed a little, let the old screens in the palaces go another year, use a less expensive metal polish on the crowns, and tell the cooks to use fewer plums in plum puddings. Every little bit will help. You can even get along without buying any new hats this winter.

Queen (sternly)—Now, George, not another word about my hats!

Road Construction Blamed for Hurts

Man Thrown Out of Auto on Rockville Pike; Is Slightly Injured.

A road under repair was blamed yesterday for the injuries of Kenneth Higgins, 413 Hobart street northwest, who was jolted out of a car driven by Arthur Fagan, 27, of Rock Creek Church road.

Fagan, according to Montgomery County police, was driving towards Washington on the Rockville pike, and when he reached a point near the intersection of the old Georgetown road, the auto hit a place under construction and Higgins was thrown out.

Higgins was taken to Emergency Hospital by Herbert Smith, 5120 Fulton street northwest, and Merle Loomis, of Cherrydale, Va. Higgins was believed to be only slightly injured, but was removed to Gallinger Hospital for further treatment.
